Hagerty's Nagging Illness

President Eisenhower's decision, fortuitous and wise, not to go to Russia until spring may provide time for the new paper and broadcast fields to indulge in stock-taking and consideration of their responsibilities.

President Eisenhower went to the California desert, where the air is soft, warm and dry, to rid himself of a nagging cold. James Hagerty, the President's press secretary, is already rid of a nagging illness of mind and spirit. The postponement of the Soviet excursion was the specific. But the illness will, like malaria, recur in the spring.

The make-up of the press party for Russia had come to be one impossible of solution. The real story of it, which Mr. Hagerty cannot tell, and has not told, nonetheless is of such embarrassing potential for the communication industry, both printed and broadcast, as to require some sober thought by all concerned.

The crush of numbers applying to accompany the President to Moscow was complicated by the fact that many persons who applied were not really reporters, columnists or commentators. It was made almost scandalous, insofar as the newspaper and broadcast professions are concerned, by the fact that among those applying were a number of non-writing publishers, or communication executives, who also insisted on their wives being accredited.

Urgent Requests

In the Hagerty file were a number of very urgent requests, some of them from persons of considerable influence, who wrote that they were going to represent their paper or station and that their wives should also be accredited. The Little Lady, said the applications, would send back "the woman's angle," or some said, "features."

Some of these shocked the more because they came from organizations which were considered above such fraudulent operations. The working reporter or editor would be shunted aside. Taxes would take care of the expense.

The White House press department, overwhelmed with applications, had thought of asking the standing committee of the Capitol press gallery to do the job of selecting. But this committee could hardly be asked to do the weeding out. A huge and unwieldy group would ruin the trip and turn the President's journey into a circus. Yet, the responsibility was not really that of the White House. This is a free country and the media of information happily are constitutionally free. The Cross Roads Bugle has as much right to apply as the magazine, newspaper or broadcasting company with the greatest circulation. The government cannot, and does not wish to exercise the decision of restriction. Who will? And how?

Privilege

The White House press office could not say what it thought of those publishers and management executives who wanted to take wives along as a matter of curiosity and prestige. This is just as well since what the press office commented was not complimentary.

The President himself said nothing, on the record. Yet what he privately thought did not deviate in the slightest from the opinion of those on the staff.

Two charter planes were all that could, in common sense, be arranged for the press, radio-TV and magazine representatives. This was too many. But two such planes would not begin to care for all who applied to go.

The Khrushchev tour offered an object lesson for evaluating responsibility. The file by a considerable number of those wearing badges was minute or nonexistent. They were an experience, in history, but they were in the way.

In his press conference following the departure of Mr. Khrushchev, the President said:

"The American's rights and privileges are going to be maintained only if he exhibits a commensurate responsibility of his own."

This applies generally—but it can be applied specifically.

MANY ARE THE MOODS OF WILLIE B., THE GORILLA, IN HIS NEW HOME AT GRANT PARK
The Young Gorilla Mulls Over the Problems of the Day; He Takes His Stand on Foreign Policy or Something

Willie B. Packs 'Em In at the Zoo

By TED LIPPMAN

Willie B., only a baby, is already well on his way to becoming Atlanta's best known and most popular citizen.

They don't keep an official count of visitors out at Grant Park, where Willie B. lives, but George I. Simons, potentate of the city's parks, says 25,000 to 35,000 humans are coming out every Sunday to look at Willie B. and his gang.

Willie B. is a baby gorilla. In about 20 years he'll be a full-grown gorilla. Then all the lucky people who are seeing him these days can look, shudder, and say with pride, "I knew him when."

Willie B. is a native of the French Cameroons. He was signed to a contract near the village of Yaounde by Dr. Deets Pickett, pre-eminent gorilla man.

The young gorilla and four more just like him were brought to New York in June. The plans were for the hairy quintet to be sold to various zoos about the country.

Atlanta bought its gorilla (Willie B.) from the Miami Rare Bird Farm of Alton Freeman. (Willie B. was the best of the lot, Freeman says.)

The day after he arrived in New York (which most gorillas agree is a nice place to visit but no place to live), Willie B. was en route to Atlanta.

Here, of course, Willie B. found a wonderful place to live. His quarters are in the city's new $500,000 monkey house. (Right now he's in temporary quarters in the new house; when he gets a little bigger, he'll move to a suite with stronger bars, etc.)

Some of Willie B.'s friends who immigrated with him did not fare so well, importer Freeman reports.

Ike May Move Up Deadline on Steel

By A. H. RASKIN

(Copyright 1959, The New York Times Co.)

PITTSBURGH—The steel union's international executive board voted Sunday to reject an industry proposal to end the national steel strike.

The board's action brought closer the prospect that President Eisenhower would obtain an 80-day back-to-work order under the Taft-Hartley act. White House sources said the President might move up his tacit deadline of Thursday if the settlement talks here collapse.

The rejection of the industry offer, the first in the 82-day-old walkout, will not become final until it is formally ratified Monday morning by the union's 130-member wage policy committee.

However, the apparent hopelessness of any direct accord between the United Steel Workers of America and the 12 major steel producers was reflected in their failure to hold any fresh negotiations Sunday.

It was considered certain that the union's four-man bargaining team would have asked for a conference with the companies before Monday's session of the wage policy committee if it had felt there was any realistic possibility of improving the industry offer enough to make it acceptable.

Weather To Stay Same; Showers Likely Tuesday

Partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures are forecast for Atlanta Monday and Tuesday.

The weather bureau says there is a chance of thundershowers Tuesday afternoon.

Temperatures are expected to range from 66 to 86 both days. Extremes here Sunday were 65 and 86.

92,294 See Bums Overcome Sox, 3-1

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A bases-loaded single by pinch-hitter Carl Furillo in the seventh inning broke up a tense pitchers' battle and sent the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 3-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox Sunday in the World Series.

A trumpet-toting crowd of 92,294—a World Series record—roared its approval as the Dodgers moved to a 2-1 lead in the Series.

The fourth game of the best-of-seven set will be played here Monday, starting at 4 p.m. EST.

The shirt-sleeved Dodger faithful, watching a tense pitching duel between Chicago's Dick Donovan and Los Angeles' Don Drysdale, didn't have a run to cheer until the seventh inning. Donovan had checked the Dodgers with only one hit through six innings.

Then Charlie Neal hit a single off the famous left-field screen and Donovan weakened by walking Norm Larker and Gil Hodges.

Then the old pro, Furillo, came through with a hot single past shortstop Luis Aparicio to wrap it up.

Young Larry Sherry relieved Drysdale in the eighth inning and ended the game by striking out the side.

Tiny Plane Is Rescued By Airliner

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—A four-engine plane, with 25 persons aboard, led a lost student-pilot to a safe landing Sunday 20 minutes before his single-engine plane would have run out of fuel.

The dramatic air rescue took place 5,000 feet in the air.

The student-pilot, Guy L. Stultz of Brockton, Mass., had become lost in overcast while flying from Mansfield, Mass., to Buffalo, N.Y.

Capt. Walter Moran, flying an American Airlines DC6, heard Stultz and the Albany Airport tower trying to make radio contact.

The airliner had stopped in Albany en route from Boston to Chicago.

At first, Moran tried relaying the tower's directions to Stultz. But the system was too complicated and the single-engine Cessna-120 was using up fuel rapidly.

Moran announced to his passengers and four other crew members that he was turning back to locate the lost plane. He found Stultz hovering above the clouds 20 miles south of Albany.

Stultz followed the airliner down

Storms Rip Flood-Hit Southwest

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—Tornadoes, torrential rains and floods battered the southwest Sunday, leaving thousands homeless and property damage in millions.

At least six persons were known dead, one missing and 65 injured from the siege of violent weather now in its fourth day in Oklahoma, Missouri and Texas.

Texas counted one dead, one missing and eight injured.

The Red Cross reported 57 injured in Oklahoma, all from floods. Five died earlier from accidents attributed to the weather.

High waters threatened Tulsa, Oklahoma's second largest city, with its worst flood of all time.

Tulsa Mayor James Maxwell appealed for hundreds of volunteers to sandbag the Arkansas River, already at record height and forecast to go higher.

Water had already lapped into hundreds of Tulsa homes late in the day.

Father Shoots Wife, Kills Self As Child Drinks All the Milk

By JAMES SHEPPARD

A College Park man, angered because he felt slighted at breakfast, killed himself Sunday after shooting his wife and threatening the children, police said.

A shotgun blast fired by the man, Albert Wiles, 60, grazed his wife's forehead, detectives said. She was treated at Grady Hospital and dismissed. Had the charge been directed half an inch lower, detectives said, it would have killed her.

The couple, who lived on Stonewall Trail Rd., Rte. 1, College Park, had been married 32 years. They were parents of 10 children.

Detectives W. K. Perry and C.

his son, Larry, 10, had drunk the milk.

"He became very mad," Mrs. Wiles was quoted, "because Larry had drunk all the milk. He said he was not going to buy any more groceries because the children had eaten the food he wanted."

He then threatened a daughter, Jacquelyn, 14, with his walking stick, officers were told.

When Mrs. Wiles intervened on the back porch, he shot her, rushed back inside the house, apparently thinking he had killed her, officers related. The blast

WHAT RUSSIANS EXPECT OF SPACE STATION
Satellite Planned to Shoot Around Underside of Moon

Soviet Feat Leads U.S. at Least Year

By JOHN W. FINNEY

(Copyright 1959 by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—United States space officials said Sunday it would be at least a year before this country could hope to duplicate the latest Soviet feat in space.

The successful Soviet space rocket was an additional and unnecessary reminder on the second anniversary of the space age that for the moment at least the Soviet Union has a decisive lead in the space race.

Furthermore, officials foresee little chance for overtaking the Soviet Union until the United States can develop more powerful rockets comparable to those already possessed by the Russians.

Powerless for the moment to match the Soviets in deed, officials reacted to the Soviet feat with words expressing reluctant resignation about the present status of the space race, admiration and congratulations for the Soviet

Summit Talk Premature, Hagerty Says

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., (AP)—President Eisenhower's headquarters said Sunday there has been no agreement yet to hold a summit conference.

"And there will not be until we hear from our allies," White House Press Secretary Hagerty said at a news conference.

Hagerty made the statement in response to questions about remarks Saturday by Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan.

Macmillan said he thought all was clear for a summit meeting, and added: "It seems to be set except for the time and place—and the people who will represent Britain."

Macmillan also indicated, Hagerty was told by a reporter, that a date and place for such a high-level meeting will be announced after Britain's national election Thursday.

Hagerty was asked specifically whether the U.S. position is that as of now there has been no agreement to hold a summit conference, pending the outcome of talks with

Withdraw for Talks, Nehru Urges Chou

NEW DELHI, India (U)—Prime Minister Nehru says the Chinese Communists must evacuate outposts they have seized on the Indian side of the Tibetan border before he will discuss the frontier dispute with Peiping.

Nehru declared in a letter to Red China's Premier Chou En-lai made public Sunday: "No discussion can be fruitful unless the outposts on the Indian side of the traditional frontier now held by Chinese forces are first evacuated by them and further threats and intimidations cease."

The Russians have urged the Indians and Chinese Communists to settle their five-year-old border dispute peacefully.

Nehru told Chou in a 7,200-word letter dated Sept. 26, however, that any discussion of minor disputes about border alignment must be based on the condition that the frontier is generally beyond dispute, pegged to a line drawn in 1914 by a British official named McMahon.

The Indian Prime Minister was replying to a Sept. 8 letter from Chou which accused the Indians of violating Chinese borders. Chou suggested "friendly negotiations" could begin if India took steps to stop "trespassing."

Nehru replied: "I entirely disagree with your view that the tense situation that has arisen on the border has been caused by India's trespassing and provocation. In fact it is the Chinese who have trespassed into Indian territory across the traditional border at a number of places in recent years."

Going down Chou's points one by one, Nehru rejected all his claims to territory. In Parliament three weeks ago, Nehru said he would yield a few miles of territory to the Chinese if it were found that Indian outposts had been placed across the border. But now he says there can "be no question of withdrawing any Indian personnel."

Nehru's firm recitation of where the border lies seemed to leave little room even to negotiate what he called border disputes, as distinct from the larger Chinese claims, which he rejected outright.

Gaitskell Looking For Close Victory

Counting on Doorstep Work Before Thursday's Election

LONDON (U)—Hugh Gaitskell, riding high and confident, predicted Sunday his Laborites will oust Harold Macmillan's Conservatives from power in Thursday's national election in Britain.

Pausing in the Yorkshire industrial center of Leeds after a 2,000-mile campaign swing, the wavy-haired Labor Party leader told a news conference: "I believe we are going to win. The important thing in the next few days is the doorstep work and getting people out to vote."

"If we do that I feel pretty confident we shall pull it off."

TOSSUP BY POLLS

Latest public opinion polls—and they have hit it pretty close in the past—showed the result of the torrid campaign thus far was nearly a tossup between the two parties.

Gaitskell conceded it would be a close thing and a hard fight. Prime Minister Macmillan predicted Saturday his Conservatives were going to win.

With only three days to go until the elections, the latest polls showed 39.5 per cent of the nation's 35,400,000 voters were backing the Conservatives and 38 per cent supporting Labor.

GAITSKELL CONFIDENCE

Gaitskell, heading a Labor election campaign for the first time, appeared to have got his new surge of confidence from the changing shift of the polls and the ovations he has won during his tour.

Two weeks back, when the campaign got started, the polls appeared to give the Laborites little hope of victory.

"I don't want to sound overconfident," the 53-year-old Labor chief told his news conference, "but I believe the signs are at the moment that we shall win."

DISPATCH DISAGREES

The right-wing Sunday Dispatch didn't agree. In its own poll of 208 districts where neither party is firmly entrenched, the Dispatch forecast the Conservatives would get back with a 51-seat majority in the House of Commons—two less than they held in the old Parliament.

Macmillan and Gaitskell made Sunday a comparative day of rest from campaigning. It was a contrast to the last two weeks of attack and counterattack as they tried to woo the estimated 18 per cent of the electors who still haven't made up their minds.

Labor's foreign policies could confront the Western allies with a major diplomatic upset if the party wins power. The Laborites have ideas about international affairs that often run counter to established Western or American diplomacy. The Laborites want the Nationalist Chinese out of Formosa and the island neutralized. They want them to give up the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsui.

The Laborites also are pledged to a unilateral British ban on nuclear tests, a halt to American H-bomb patrol flights over Britain and an end to the Central Treaty Organization, formerly the Baghdad Pact. They also advocate the neutralization of Central Europe and the Middle East.

New Storm Brews in Far East

TOKYO (U)—A new storm threatened in the Far East Sunday while Japanese worked frantically to recover from Typhoon Vera, the worst storm in the nation's history which hit just one week ago.

Tropical storm Amy, which could easily blow up into a full-scale typhoon, was reported by U.S. weathermen here to be whirling north from a point east of the northern Philippines toward Formosa. It carried 50 miles per hour center winds.

The storm, the U.S. weathermen said, was expected to be 207 miles east of the Southern tip of Formosa Monday morning.

Meanwhile, in the Nagoya area, the hardest hit of all by Vera, American and Japanese rescue teams still were working around the clock.

The latest casualty figures for Typhoon Vera issued by police showed 3,945 people dead and 1,235 missing.

A total number of 90 rescue aircraft from all over Japan flew into Komaki since last weekend.

From Komaki helicopters were flying supplies out and bringing in the stranded.

U.S. helicopters alone in the past seven days made 575 flights, removed more than 5,000 persons and airlifted 115,000 pounds of supplies.

Hannah Stays Clear of U.S.

WASHINGTON (U)—Hurricane Hannah continued to follow a course Sunday that made it no threat to the United States but ships in the North Atlantic were advised to exercise extreme caution.

Highest winds in the hurricane, located about 550 miles northeast of Bermuda, were about 110 miles per hour over a small area near the center with winds of hurricane force (75 m.p.h. or more) extending out about 75 miles.

The hurricane is expected to move toward the east for the next 24 hours.

Sub Shakes Free of Mud In Britain

PORTSMOUTH, England (U)—The 1,800-ton U.S. Navy submarine Trench ran up a mudbank in Portsmouth Sunday, but pulled away undamaged within minutes.

The vessel later tied up at the Royal Navy submarine base here after its trip from New London, Conn.

The U.S. Navy in Washington quoted the Trench's skipper, Lt. Cmdr. Robert B. Mills, as saying his sub did not actually run aground.

BOW SHOOK UP

Witnesses said they saw the American submarine's bow rise as it reached the mudbank and it left a large area of churned-up mud and silt as it backed away.

Scores of sightseers saw the American submarine safely navigate the entrance to the channel on its second attempt.

Mills could not be reached for comment. He and his 95 officers and ratings left immediately after docking to begin five days leave in Britain—a break from Atlantic exercises.

MISJUDGED TIDE?

A British officer at the submarine base told newsmen the Trench "appeared to misjudge the speed of the tide, which was ebbing rather fast at the time and swung on to the mudbank."

A plan to dredge a deeper channel is expected to be carried out shortly. When the U.S. Navy's nuclear submarines Nautilus, Skate and Skipjack visited Britain, they left the base off their calling list. They went to the large open harbor at Portland on the south coast.

'Deliver Us,' Sign Of Beatniks Said

By WARREN BOSWORTH

"I guess you can say we crashed the ball when we busted into that mad pad," Sgt. M. W. Blackwell of the vice squad said Sunday, describing Saturday night's raid on the "660 1/2 Coffee Shop" at 660 1/2 West Peachtree St., N.E.

Sgt. Blackwell said he and his men had been watching the house since Thursday night. They rushed in Saturday night and arrested 30 persons.

"We watched 'em come and go, and when two boys started in about 10:30 p.m. we made a run for it," he said.

Blackwell crowded in behind the boys, flashed his badge and was immediately followed in by his four fellow officers.

"The girl on the door didn't know what was happening," Blackwell said, "until we all had gotten in."

'OF LOVE AND LUST'

The long-haired girl at the door wore a leotard and was reading a book entitled "Of Love and Lust" when the officers pulled their raid, Blackwell said.

A number of the "customers" arrested inside the eight room two-story house were college students. A few wore rat caps.

"That place looked like an unkempt henhouse," Detective R. P. Pitts said. "The hi fi set was blaring loud enough to hear it a mile away, and the customers were sprawled out on the floor or sitting on pillows. The place looked like it hadn't been swept in months."

OBSCENE PICTURES

The detectives confiscated some empty whiskey and wine bottles. Officers arrested Pablo G. Price, 28, and James L. Bray, 26, who said they live in the house, and charged them with possessing obscene pictures, doing business without a license, and operating a dive.

Twenty-eight others were charged with being occupants of a dive.

Both Price and Bray, who say they own and operate the house, sported beatnik-type beards and described themselves as "real gone," officers said.

'WAY OUT, MAN'

Price told officers that when the word got out that his "coffee house" had been raided that "all the cats would flock in."

Bray and Price told the detectives that their patrons consist of "some regular cats and others who are just drifters snorting around," Blackwell said.

He said that when Price and Bray were asked what they did besides operate the beatnik gathering spot, they answered:

"We just sit here and sip wine and coffee and go way out into space, man, way out yonder," pointing towards outer space.

While police "shook down" the place, one girl stood under a large sign which read: "Oh, Satan Deliver Us From Our Deliverers" and sobbed. Others, glum-faced, sat cross-legged on the pillows and floor.

"The place was real cool when we went in," Blackwell said with a grin, "but we soon warmed it up. We closed all the windows."

Four mattresses and clothing were also found on the floor in one room.

"From all I can gather," Sgt. Blackwell said, "that is what you call a 'beatnik bedroom' or something like that."

Many of those arrested were freed on bond Saturday night and Sunday afternoon. A number of them, however, were still in jail Sunday night.

The 30 jailed in Saturday night's raid are scheduled to appear at a hearing set for 3:30 p.m. Monday in Municipal Court.

Monday will see the dedication of Railroad Town Museum, which features railroad equipment used in the past.

DELINQUENCY REPORT

Build Pride, Hope, Teachers Urged

By BESS FURMAN

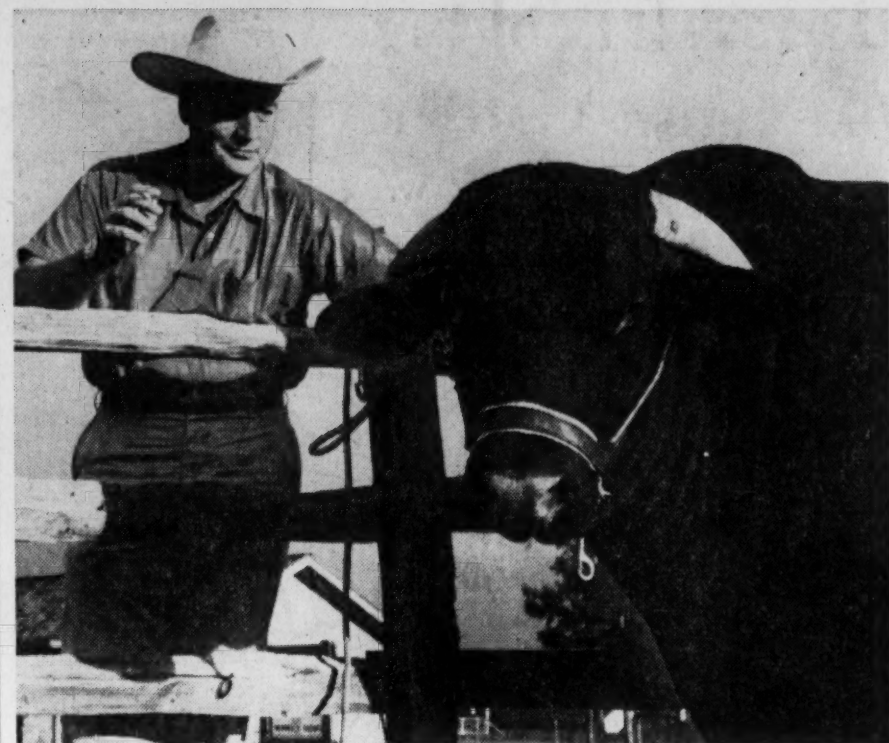

(Copyright 1959 by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—A 350-page report issued Sunday by the juvenile delinquency project of the National Education Assn. says every teacher "must try to build for the lower-class pupil pride in his past, confidence in his present, and to instill hope for the future."

This report is a sequel to a report issued by the same group last May, and makes even more specific the finding of the first report—that juvenile delinquency is predominantly the violation of middle-class norms by lower-class youngsters. This theory was challenged by some of the 200 experts meeting to consider the May report, resulting in lively debate.

The second report, designed for the day-by-day use of teachers, school administrators and co-operating citizen groups, uses the term "delinquent" only as a description of behavior, the terms "norm-violator" or "norm-violating youngsters" are used instead of "delinquent."

Lockheed-Built Coast Guard Jet Passes Its Test

Initial test flights on the new Coast Guard SC-130-B being built at Lockheed's Georgia Division at Marietta were successful, Leo Sullivan, chief engineering test pilot, announced Sunday.

The plane, a prop-jet Hercules, trails a cable which, when fully unreeled, stretches 225 feet from the underside of the pilot's cockpit. The cable, Sullivan explained, is an antenna. It is the nerve center for a master communication system which ties in all surface vessels and aircraft while a search and rescue mission is underway.

This prop-jet propelled "command post" enables a crew member, called an "on-scene commander," to coordinate all activity during an emergency at sea.

The flight lasted an hour, Sullivan said.

Target Shot In Lumpkin Proves Fatal

DAWSONVILLE (AP)—A Lumpkin County man was accidentally shot and killed Sunday during target practice on Frosty Mountain about 16 miles north of Dawsonville.

Sheriff Glen Wallace said Lon Proctor, 29, of Rte. 3, Dahlonega, died of a .22 caliber rifle bullet in the head.

The sheriff identified the man who fired the shot as Jack Richardson, 26, of Canton.

Proctor was crouched in front of Richardson and stood up unexpectedly just as Richardson fired at the target, the sheriff said.

The sheriff ruled the death accidental.

Laos Policeman Slain in Ruckus In Night Club

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—A night club shooting shattered the early morning quiet in this capital Sunday.

The scene was the Lido Club, frequent haunt of Laotian government and military officials as well as members of the visiting U.N. fact-finding team, but there was nothing political about the shooting.

Police Lt. Sisawat was killed and police Sgt. Bung Tan accused of murdering him. Witnesses said a quarrel broke out when Sisawat ordered Bung Tan to go slow on his drinking. Bung Tan told him to mind his own business. Sisawat swung at him and the sergeant pulled a gun and shot the lieutenant through the head.

Mother, 2 Children Die in Fire

Constitution State News Service

DALTON—A Negro mother and her two small children perished late Saturday night when a flash fire swept their three-story frame home, Dalton Fire Chief Luther Broome said.

The victims were Mrs. Betty Powell, 33, and her two sons, James, 3, and David Franklin Powell, 2.

Two other children, Allen, 13, and Diane Powell, who were also in the house, were awakened by their mother and escaped, Whitfield County Sheriff Donald McArthur said.

The sheriff said Allen told him he crawled back into the house to get his mother and young brothers out, but that Mrs. Powell resisted efforts to save her.

A neighbor also told the sheriff he had tried to rescue the woman and the children after breaking down a locked door, but that Mrs. Powell pushed him out of the house twice.

The sheriff said he learned Mrs. Powell had been depressed, and electricity to the home had been turned off because of apparent failure to pay the bill.

The husband, "Slim" Powell, was not at home at the time of the fire.

Movie's Goldwyn Enters Hospital

NEW YORK (AP)—Film producer Samuel Goldwyn, 73, entered Harkness Pavilion Sunday for treatment of a minor leg ailment. He is expected to be released in several days, a spokesman says.

(Atkins Personnel Service)

The biggest puzzle in the working world is regarding the business of "AGE." I have heard more odd misunderstandings about age prejudice than is believable.

Applicants who seem to have judgment in every other way have some peculiar idea regarding this unavoidable state!

Invariably, men and women looking for work who have passed their 39th year will ask: "Can you place anyone of my age?" as their opening question in our office!

LET'S SETTLE it as best we can in short space by generalizing on the real truth about AGE and the JOB SEEKER.

1. If a person has been working steadily at the same work for which they are looking, have kept themselves proficient and are in good health, AGE is not a barrier. We merely find an employer who prefers a mature person instead of a young applicant.

2. If a person has been out of the working field for a number of years and has no special skills, then, in most cases, job-seeking is a problem.

TO SUM IT UP, we find that whether a person is 60 or only 18—finding a good job depends on skills, attitudes and stability! Don't use your age to dominate others, or as an excuse for not taking orders. Some employers like them young, some don't. Some employers like them mature, some don't. As our Agency we take it as part of our work to know the difference and refer accordingly.

BUT REMEMBER—if you are rusty and out of touch—and it's tough to find work—don't blame it on AGE!

Dr. Boggs Leaving Druid Hills For Ousted Pastor's Pulpit

COLUMBUS (AP)—Dr. Wade H. Boggs Sr. of Atlanta has accepted an invitation to become interim pastor of Columbus' First Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Boggs, who served as moderator of the 1954 Central Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States and was the former executive secretary of the assembly's Board of Annuities, announced his acceptance to the congregation at the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday.

Dr. Boggs is associate pastor of the Druid Hills Presbyterian Church at 1026 Ponce de Leon Ave., N.E.

ARTICLE CITED

The commission on June 7 dissolved the pastoral connection of the Rev. Robert B. McNeill, who since has accepted an invitation to become the associate pastor of Bream Memorial Church, Charleston, W. Va. He will replace the 2,000-member church's senior pastor, Dr. Joe B. Overmyer after his retirement in 1961.

The Rev. Mr. McNeill wrote an article on the Deep South's racial troubles and advocated "creative contact" between the races. His article was published in Look magazine.

When the commission dissolved the governing body of First Church in the fall of 1958, it mentioned unrest in the congregation dating from the time the article appeared. However, the commission upheld the Rev. Mr. McNeill's right to speak from the pulpit.

MCNEILLS LEAVE

The dissolution of his pastoral connection was followed by a heart attack. It was during the Rev. Mr. McNeill's convalescent period that he accepted the West Virginia call.

The Rev. Mr. McNeill will assume no official duties until the first of the year.

Invitation to assume the pastorate had been extended to Dr. Boggs by the Judicial Commission.

of the Southwest Georgia Presbytery and members of the Provisional Session of the presbytery also had hoped he would accept the invitation.

NOW 'CONVINCED'

Dr. Boggs stated to the congregation that he had given the invitation consideration and now was convinced that the people want him here.

He was the guest minister at First Presbyterian Church at the morning and evening worship services on Sunday, Sept. 13, and Sunday, Sept. 20. He confirmed that he had the "gracious invitation from the commission," but said he was unwilling to make a final decision until he found out if the people of the church really want him.

Dr. Boggs, at that time, said that during his associations in Columbus he would find out "whether folks are ready to forget the past and plan for the future."

"I will come to Columbus if the people want me," Dr. Boggs said at that time.

DeKalb Faces Test Again on Schools

Supt. Jim Cherry, of DeKalb County schools, reports that enrollment in that system is increasing by 150 per week. Annual attendance increase, which has been running at a rate of about 3,000 a year, is expected to jump to more than 4,000 during the next decade.

DeKalb will continue to try to plan ahead to meet the demand for more classrooms and facilities. After four successive bond issues, on March 16 of this year all 40,000 pupils enrolled in the system were housed in public school buildings with no double sessions.

But that does not end the story. An additional 3,600 pupils are expected during the present school year requiring 128 more classrooms. Obviously a new building program must be undertaken.

The DeKalb Board of Education thus has adopted a 10-year plan for new construction. For the first increment of this plan—to be completed in the next three years—DeKalb voters have been asked to approve a $11,500,000 local bond issue in an election tomorrow. Since citizens have shown they want good schools in the past, approval seems assured.

This will be only a beginning in providing facilities for an enrollment which is expected to reach 80,000 pupils within a decade. A total of 1,300 additional classrooms will be needed by 1968.

The DeKalb board points out that the state has provided no capital outlay funds for school construction in the county since 1952, although a total of $3,500,000 is due under commitments of the Minimum Foundation Program for education. No such funds have been received for 19-972 DeKalb children while the State Department of Education this year will pay the same allotments of funds to counties with decreasing enrollments.

Something is wrong with a system of financing which takes such little account of school population shifts. Enrollment in DeKalb has increased more in the last six years than in the first 130 years of the county's history. Total population has increased in 20 years from 136,395 to 227,129.

We are fully confident that DeKalb County citizens will meet the challenge as they have in the past. However, the state should accept its rightful part of the burden.

Crackdown on Traffic Is Paying Dividends

Further proof of effectiveness of law enforcement in reducing the traffic toll is contained in the announcement by Atlanta Traffic Supt. James F. Brown of results of beefed-up strength of the police traffic squad.

Since the city started using a detail of motorcycle officers on over-time duty during peak hours, there has been a remarkable decline in accidents, injuries and deaths. Although the officers were on duty for only two weeks in August, there was a decline for the month of 10 per cent in crashes and fatalities decreased 92 per cent.

True, the police have made many arrests and have given many tickets. This, in turn, is being rewarded with greater respect for law and greater safety on the streets. This, we believe, has the overwhelming approval of all citizens. They want such enforcement continued and even more rigidly.

Let's make this program standard operating procedure for handling traffic. And let those who refuse to abide by the law pay the cost of enforcement so that the rest of us can be safe.

Judge La Buy's Ruling Evades Basic Question

It will be most difficult for the average person to comprehend how an individual or corporation can own stock in a concern and yet be prohibited from voting it.

It will be even more difficult for him to understand how such a ruling changes the basic violation of anti-trust laws which the U.S. Supreme Court found in ownership of 63 million shares of General Motors stock, worth $3,500,000,000, by the Du Pont Co. This amounts to 23 per cent of all GM stock.

Yet Friday, Federal District Judge Walter J. La Buy ruled in Chicago that Du Pont could continue ownership of this stock without voting rights in the company. He did prohibit Du Pont from acquiring any further stock.

The ruling is merely another round in the 10-year fight by the government to prevent the nation's greatest industrial giant from gaining further control of the country's biggest automobile manufacturer. Du Pont is GM's biggest supplier of finishes and fabrics.

It should be noted that Judge La Buy earlier had dismissed all charges by the U.S. Department of Justice of violations of anti-trust laws on the part of Du Pont. This decision was reversed by the Supreme Court, which ordered Judge La Buy to work out a method for compliance with the law. The government requested that Du Pont dispose of its General Motors holdings within 10 years.

The judge's latest ruling, it seems to us, is unconstitutional. Ownership of stock carries with it a democratic right to vote that stock. And whether or not the stock is voted, mere fact of ownership constitutes a big influence on management. The ruling is an effective evasion, temporary at best, of the Supreme Court edict. No doubt the decision will be tested further in the courts. Judge La Buy's ruling, to say the least, is most confusing.

Streamlined Tax Form Will Ease Part of Pain

Some 17 million Americans will get an overdue break next year when they face up to the chore of filling out federal income tax returns.

The bite on pocketbooks will be as severe as ever but at least dispositions will not be roughed up quite as much as formerly, thanks to revision of the tax reporting form.

The new version, christened by Uncle Sam as form 1040W, asks fewer questions than the old one. That in itself makes it a decided improvement from the taxpayer's viewpoint.

While no shouts of glee are anticipated when form 1040W is fished from mailboxes across the nation, there should be considerably fewer headaches involved in filling out returns than was the case in the past.

It does make it a little tough for habitual procrastinators, however. At least a part of the traditional excuse of not having the time and the cash to file before the last minute is shattered.

East Point To Show Civil Defense Units

The City of East Point today will demonstrate an awareness of the need for Civil Defense which is exemplary.

The East Point CD Day will include a parade consisting of more than 50 Civil Defense and rescue units from throughout the state. The night show will be a rescue demonstration with many units participating.

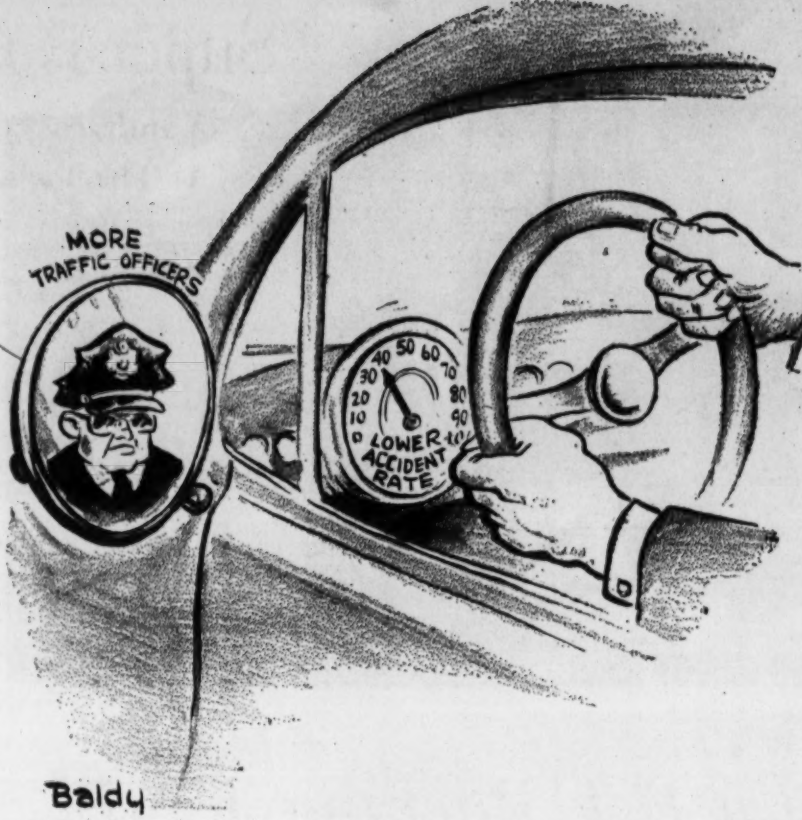

The city's warning system has been so installed as to insure a signal audible to everyone within the city limits.

East Point city officials and the citizens there are to be commended for their attention to Civil Defense, which has come to mean not merely preparedness for enemy attack but readiness to cope with any disaster.

Chamber of Commerce Official Upholds Population Prediction for Atlanta M-Day

Atlanta—In his letter to the editor last Tuesday, J. W. Nicolson indicated his concern over the possibility that Atlantans might be "red-faced" when they receive the results of the 1960 census and learn that metropolitan Atlanta has not reached a population of one million. I feel sure that others share Nicolson's viewpoint.

This possibility was carefully faced by all persons interested in celebrating M-Day on Oct. 10, a time when we shall tell the world that metropolitan Atlanta has reached the one-million mark and immediately starts on its second million.

Of course, no one will know with certainty until the federal census of 1960 has been completed but careful estimates show that 990,000 persons were in the Atlanta standard metropolitan area as of April 1, 1959, and reports show the influx has continued since that date. If the estimates we have studied are reasonable and we think they are, and if the present trends continue, Atlanta will reach the one-million mark by Oct. 10.

The Atlanta standard metropolitan area includes all of Clayton, Cobb, DeKalb, Fulton and Gwinnett counties. Clayton County having been added in 1956 and Gwinnett in 1958. Recent studies made by the Metropolitan Planning Commission indicate that after M-Day, Oct. 10, metropolitan Atlanta will be starting on its second million provided, of course, that the present trends continue. C. O. EMMERICH, Chairman, Metropolitan Council of Chambers of Commerce.

'Wait 'Til Next Year,' Yankee Fan Replies

Atlanta—In response to A. B. Holliday's letter regarding my prediction that the World Series would be held in Yankee Stadium this year, I advance the date to 1960.

I miss the Mighty Yankees in the series this year. Somehow running and even pitching are no substitutes to me for the power bats of Mantle and Skowron. And to me other teams lack the color that Yogi and Casey and all of my Yankees give.

I do not alibi for them. They just plain didn't play ball this year, but next year—ah yes!

Meanwhile good luck to the White Sox. They won deservedly. And to Mr. Holliday and other Yankee haters, make the most of this year!

He Asks Prayers For Godless Leaders

Decatur—Godless leaders of different nations come to visit America, enjoy our hospitality, travel freely, witness our great progress, prosperity and Christian freedom, yet go back unchanged.

The Holy Bible says of such people: "They made their hearts as an adamant stone." We who believe in prayer should earnestly pray to the Heavenly Father to open these godless leaders' eyes and minds. Prayer changes things. B. M. SHARIAN.

Is Church Too Busy To Help Alcoholics?

Atlanta—Back in the summer there was some discussion in your "Pulse of the Public" as to the best (or only) cure for alcoholism and it was the unanimous opinion, so far as I could determine, that the cure is spiritual.

Since I believe that is true, I go along with the principle, as pointed out then, that such a problem of man can be cured by the church—that is, if the alcoholic has not sunk so low as to lose too much of his self-respect and is a fine, participating Christian in all other ways. Or should every alcoholic be sent out of the church for special treatments to continue as long as his temptation might last?

Does the church gain or lose by sending an alcoholic out for such treatments when he comes first to the church for help? Are we too busy in our churches today to spend the necessary time with an alcoholic member in order to meet one of the country's worst problems?

A PROFESSING CHRISTIAN HOUSEWIFE.

He Still Had Wrong Number

Staff men at the Stanford Medical Center in California have a 24-hour secretarial standby. If a doctor torn between research and treatment problems and the desire to sleep gets an idea in the middle of insomnia and of the night, he can dial an "electronic secretary" and dictate what is on his mind regardless of the clock.

This recent development in communications will be made available, one assumes, to other professionals including columnists.

Yet the "electronic secretary" has a drawback made obvious by the soldier boy who went back to a city where he had been stationed years before. He was still carrying that little book of telephone numbers and he quickly went into the phone booth to give the system a whirl.

What he did not know was that in his absence the town had gone on DDD—that's Direct Distance Dialing—and the numbers had been changed.

He tried the first combination in the black book and a voice said: "The number you have dialed is not a working number. Please consult your directory."

The lad scratched off the first combination, then dialed the second set of letters and digits.

Again the voice intoned: "The number you have dialed is not a working number. Please consult your directory."

Puzzled, but not discouraged, he went down the line until finally, he said back into the phone, "Say, baby, you've got a nice voice. Maybe you've got nice eyes, too. What are you doing tonight?"

And again the voice said, "The number you have dialed is not a working number."

BIG QUESTION: Then there was the fellow who called information and she said, "The number is Capital 8-9777."

He hesitated and she asked, "Did you get the number?"

And he answered, "Yeah, I got it all right. But how do you dial 'Capital 8'?"

MOON TITLE: Bill Collins of Valdosta says all argument about ownership of the moon can be settled by Deuteronomy 4:19, which reads: "And lest you lift up your eyes to heaven, and when you see the sun and moon and the stars, all the host of heaven, you be drawn away and worship them and serve them, things which the Lord your God has allotted to all the peoples under the whole heaven."

"Thus," Bill points out, "we see the moon belongs to all of us and no nation can ever lay claim to it."

Isn't that what the song says, "The moon belongs to all of us, the best things in life are free?" And some of them are hard to attain.

France Can Upset Disarmament Plan

WASHINGTON—In a strange new world where the truly lofty foreign policy is conducted only by VIPs hurtling the seas in jet airliners, the next big journey probably will be by President de Gaulle of France. It is authoritatively predicted here that he will visit President Eisenhower early next year.

This—we hope—will be after some good, sound settlement by De Gaulle of the rebellion in Algeria. And it will at any rate be before Eisenhower's return visit to Khrushchev in Moscow.

It is possible that our tall and enormously correct and remote French visitor may provide in his way almost as sensitive a problem in handling as did the short and folksy Khrushchev. Mr. K's trip seems to have been chipped away a little of the East-West cold war ice.

The job now will be to persuade De Gaulle not to form a fresh ice belt of his own around relations within the Western Alliance itself. The best possible friendly persuasion would be to help him resolve his dilemma in Algeria.

But if we can't find a means to assist De Gaulle off the hook there—and this unhappily is the greater probability—there are hard times ahead.

Gen. de Gaulle originally was chilly toward the Eisenhower-Khrushchev exchanges. Lately he has warmed up a bit toward them. But now since the American and Soviet leaders have indicated that nuclear disarmament is the best possibility for fruitful negotiations, De Gaulle is in a position to raise immense fresh difficulties.

Not the least of the gloomy general's many dissatisfactions with his Western partners is the long refusal of the United States and Great Britain to admit him to their "atomic club." We and the British have given him no weapons and no help in making them.

Meantime, it is foreseen here that if Khrushchev agrees to something really useful in the disarmament field he will, of course, insist upon an all-Western concurrence in it.

De Gaulle can, if he wishes, simply observe: "No doubt you American and British fellows have won a famous victory in negotiating an atomic standstill with the Russians. But, of course, since you never regarded France as a part of your atomic enterprise you will not now presume to ask France to enter any kind of understanding with the Russians on a matter where you never offered France herself any understanding."

His foreign minister, Maurice Couve de Murville, has just let fall some sobering words in the United Nations General Assembly. He spoke with far less happy optimism than the American and British spokesmen. He simply made it plain that a thing expressed in a short word of long meaning—the word "trust"—had to be very present before France would agree to any kind of disarmament.

For France's part, he declared, many settlements of issues with the Russians had first to be made before disarmament could be seriously talked about.

'He Went to Grave In Great Splendor'

Out in Texas the other day I heard the story of a rich man who put into his will that he was to be buried in the finest automobile which could be bought. When he died they carried out his instructions. They bought a beautiful, expensive car and sat him in it. They dug a grave big enough for the car and had a crane to place the man and car into that grave.

A grave-digger watched the proceedings with great interest. As the shiny car was being lowered into the grave he said, "Man, that's living!"

I smiled at that silly story but the more I think about it the less funny it gets to be. The man was not living at all. He was dead. His bright possession was not his joy. It was his tomb. Today there are vast numbers of people who have so fixed their desires on material things and having a good time that they have forgotten what living really is.

We have more to make life easy than any people who have ever lived. We live in the finest houses, wear the nicest clothes, and eat the best food that any generation has ever known. Yet we have more suicides, more divorces, more people in jail and more mental illness than any generation has ever known. Many people are dead and are being buried, but we look at each other's good fortune and exclaim, "Man, that's living!"

One of the first things Jesus did in His ministry was lay down a basic economic principle. Before He ever preached a sermon, worked a miracle or gave a parable, Jesus said, "Man shall not live by bread alone" (Luke 4:4). He said this in answer to Satan who sought to get him to use his powers to turn the stones into bread. Jesus refused that temptation. But many of us have succumbed to that very same temptation. We use all our abilities and energies to "get ahead" in the world. Later Jesus re-emphasized this principle when He said, "A man's life consists not in the abundance of things which he possesses" (Luke 12:15). He is telling us that we can possess much and yet be dead.

"Two verbs have built two empires," wrote Augustine, "the verb 'to have' and the verb 'to be.' The first is an empire of things—material possessions and power. The second is an empire of the spirit—things that last."

In these days of prosperity it is too easy to be fooled into thinking that we are succeeding greatly. We measure life by the wrong measures, we set our hearts on things which have no life-giving power within them, we fail to consider the things that count for the most.

It is good to stop still long enough to answer the questions: "What is living?" and "Am I living?"

Fan-Driven Car Flies at Princeton

The other day I wrote a piece about the passing of the wheel. Some day, I said, people would be riding on a cushion of air, gliding along a few feet above the earth on something resembling a big electric fan pointed downward. Now it seems, "some day" is already here.

Up at Princeton University they have developed a strange looking device shaped like a pie with a metal crust. A tail fin pokes up at the back of it like an airplane's rudder. In the middle of it is a seat like a bicycle seat and just ahead of the seat is a set of bicycle handlebars. Forward of the handlebars is a thing like a steel oil drum, open at the front end and bending downward at the back to fit into the pie-shaped platform.

In this barrel-shaped housing are a small 30-horsepower engine and a fan which sucks in air and blows it out at high velocity around the edges of the pie. This engine and fan are powerful enough to lift the contraption up off the ground about four inches. The rider, by leaning forward a little, makes it glide forward. The bicycle handles are just to hold on to. They don't guide the thing. To guide it the rider leans forward or back or from one side to the other.

It moves about 15 miles an hour and nobody would use one to travel any great distance, but it seems to me it would be fine to come down to the office on in the morning. At that speed nobody would get hurt very much if you were reading the morning paper and goofed off and bumped into somebody. And even if the engine shut off, falling four inches wouldn't break any bones.

I couldn't find out how much of a load the thing could carry but the picture of the one I saw had a big fat sergeant riding on it with a sort of foolish expression on his face.

If he could ride the thing without falling off I'll bet I could.

Religious note: Lady in church bursting into a fit of sneezes as she knelt to pray.

"I bid out of towed all subber ad my prayer boog's bildewed," she explained while sheepishly blowing her nose.

15 Boxcars Derail In Heart of Vienna

VIENNA—Fifteen empty boxcars of a 198-car Atlantic Coast Line train derailed in the heart of Vienna Sunday, blocking Georgia Highway 90 for about four hours.

No one was injured.

Hundreds of persons gathered along the tracks Sunday night as railway crews cleared the wreck-age.

State patrolmen kept traffic moving by routing cars around the train.

Patrol Trooper F. A. McGlaun said a broken wheel on one of the cars may have caused the derailment that sent cars spilling off both sides of the track.

Horse Tosses Osaka Chief

OSAKA, Japan (UPI)—Osaka governor Gisen Sato, 60, suffered severe head cuts Saturday when his horse bolted during an Osaka Festival parade and threw him. "I have plenty of confidence in elections but I'm weak against a horse," Sato said at the hospital where he was taken for treatment.

Willie B. Is Packing 'Em In At Zoo's New Monkey House

One was drowned in New York by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. "They put him on his back and fed him with a bottle," according to importer Freeman. Another young gorilla met the same fate in Kansas City.

HARD TO GET

The two that managed to escape, not counting Willie B., are in Kansas City and Miami. One is in a zoo. The other is for sale (about which, more later).

Gorillas are getting hard to find. Freeman says Dr. Pickett is the only gorilla hunter around at the time. He's a newcomer at the game.

One reason for their scarcity (gorillas and hunters) is that many countries in Africa no longer allow gorillas and other wild life to emigrate. "The French Cameroons and the Belgian Congo are the only places left you can get them," Freeman says. "And even there you have to pay a $1,500 export tax."

WEIGH 400-500

Gorillas, according to Freeman, Simons and the Encyclopaedia Britannica (Vol. 10, GAME, TO GNUM) are the largest of the anthropoid apes. They inhabit the rain forests of West Africa.

Their average size, when full grown, is five and a half feet. They weigh from 400 to 500 pounds.

In captivity they live to be around 30. In Africa they live a little bit less than that. (In a cage they get a better diet, a cleaner bed, etc., and don't have many fights.)

Gorillas (the scientific name is gorilla gorilla) are primarily vegetarians. They do eat some meat, however.

They are among the most powerful of animals, and are often vicious. Gorillas in captivity are dangerous to people. (Gorillas not in captivity are dangerous to people, too. Generally they will behave around a keeper they have known a long time. But they might pull a stranger's arm off. Gorillas don't know their own strength.)

In West Africa gorillas often build beds in trees. These are used principally by lady gorillas and baby gorillas. They are often used only for a single night, like a motel.

According to an American psychologist, gorillas are stupid, compared to chimpanzees and orangutans. Gorillas like to beat their chest rapidly with their fists.

Willie B. is a year old. He weighs 31 pounds, almost double what he weighed when he came here back in June. He was named by zoo attendants after William Berry Hartsfield.

Willie B. cost the taxpayers $4,500. Seller Freeman would like to see the taxpayers buy Willie B. a little companion. He has a female gorilla, about Willie B.'s age, for sale. He's asking $4,750.

"Two gorillas are at least twice as much fun as one gorilla," Freeman says. "You not only have twice as much to look at, but you have breeding possibilities."

"Two zoo gorillas had a baby gorilla up in Columbus, Ohio, about four years ago."

blew hair from Mrs. Wiles' scalp to the floor.

She ran across the street with the children to seek refuge in the home of G. Lovett Hudgins, a neighbor.

Neighbors heard a gunshot after Mrs. Wiles and the children crossed the street and called police. Wiles' body was found on the living room sofa, the shotgun between his legs. An empty shell was in the barrel. Another shell was on the back porch, and four live shells were in his pockets.

Detectives said they were told the Wiles were happy until recent months when his health failed and he became depressed. He had been under treatment for a kidney ailment and hardening of the arteries.

He was a carpenter until ill health forced him to retire and walk with a stick.

Mrs. Wiles was treated and released from Grady Hospital. Physicians said her wound was not serious.

Survivors include five children who lived at home, Larry, 10; Jacquelyn, 14; Barbara, 12; Eugene, 27, and Wendell, 25; five other children, Jerome Wiles of East Point; Mrs. Joe Davis and Mrs. Edward Smallwood of Palmetto; Horrie and Harold Wiles of Detroit, Mich.; a brother, Joseph Wiles of Moreland; three sisters, Mrs. W. B. Smith of Newnan, Mrs. Ralph Bomar of Atlanta and Mrs. John Durett of Palmetto.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Bishop and Poe Funeral Home at Fairburn.

Dalton Fire Destroys Old Theater

Constitution State News Service
DALTON—Fire destroyed the old Crescent Theater building in downtown Dalton Sunday night.

It was the second major downtown fire here in about a month.

Two city police officers discovered the fire about 8:20 p.m. Firemen had the blaze under control by 10 p.m., but the building continued to smolder.

Fire damage was confined to the building itself. There was some water damage to the Bank of Dalton next door and to a nearby waffle shop, firemen said.

The cause of the fire had not been determined Sunday night.

The Crescent was a landmark in Dalton. It opened in 1929 as a moving picture house. It was closed in June of this year.

The owners of the building were in the process of remodeling it. A dress shop and shoe store were planning to lease the space.

State to Dedicate Super-Road Link

Vandiver To Speak Friday At Tift-Turner Ceremonies

A $14 million segment of super-highway in south Georgia will be dedicated in Tift-Turner county ceremonies Friday morning.

Gov. Vandiver will be the principal speaker at dedication of the 37-mile section of Federal Interstate 75 in the two counties, and he also will unveil the first federal interstate route marker to be erected in Georgia.

A number of state officials and newspaper editors will attend the dedication ceremonies to be held at 11:30 a.m. in Turner County just north of Ashburn near the Tift County line.

The program will include a motorcade over the new highway and a barbecue in Tift County.

The road to be dedicated consists of two 24-foot strips of nine-inch concrete spread across the two counties on a 300-foot right-of-way. The construction cost $13,896,000, including right-of-way.

In addition to the two dual traffic lanes, the project includes 32 bridges and 16 frontage roads.

The longest section of Interstate route yet to be completed in Georgia, the road will form part of the Great Lakes-to-Gulf route running through Chattanooga, Atlanta, Macon, Valdosta and on to Tampa, Fla.

Although it will be dedicated Friday, the Tift-Turner section will not be classed as officially opened until sometime next spring when all work has been completed and the construction certified by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads.

The Interstate marker which Vandiver will unveil is a reflectorized red, white and blue shield, designed by the American Association of State Highway Officials. It bears the word "Interstate" in white letters in the upper red band and the word "Georgia" and the route number in the blue lower portion.

The Tift-Turner section is part of the 1,140 miles of four-lane limited access Federal Interstate highway to be constructed in Georgia.

To date, 29½ miles of Interstate roads are officially open in Georgia and 21 miles are unofficially open and in daily use. In addition, construction is in some stage along a total of 111 miles throughout the state.

The Federal Interstate system eventually will form a 41,000-mile network throughout the nation without a traffic light, stop sign, railroad or grade crossing, steep grade or sharp curve.

46 Towns To Join Saturday's M-Day

Mayor's Letter Goes Out To Officials in 5 Counties

Forty-six municipalities in the five-county Metropolitan area will participate in Saturday's M-Day, marking the climb to one million population.

In the five counties of Clayton, Cobb, DeKalb, Fulton and Gwinnett, there are 43 mayors. There is one chief city commissioner.

Clayton's Fund Goal Is $12,000

Clayton Countians have set a $10,000-to-$12,000 goal for their Community Chest Drive which begins Oct. 15.

"And we're in the position where we must help ourselves if anyone is to do it," commented the organization's president, W. H. (Bill) Fleming.

Fleming said that the Clayton County Community Chest still has not found acceptance in the fold of the Metropolitan Atlanta Community Services (which includes the Community Chest of Greater Atlanta), although it has been considered for membership.

'EVERYTHING TO GAIN'

"We are hoping to be accepted, maybe next year," Fleming said. "We know we have everything to gain from the association . . . services we can't start to provide."

It was eight years ago that Clayton County's present Community Chest started, according to Fleming. The first year, collections amounted to $1,000, he said.

In 1958 the county spent about $7,000 on 101 needy families (averaging about six to the family), Fleming said.

Fleming says the drive poses the same problem this year in that many persons do not understand it.

MOST GIVE

"Most of our people (there are about 35,000 in Clayton County) work in Atlanta and give to the drives there," Fleming said. "We are glad of this, but we hope they will contribute to the Clayton County drive, too. This is actually the only emergency fund to meet their needs. They are not eligible to receive help from the Greater Atlanta organization."

Fleming said that the drive for this year will follow the door-to-door pattern of previous drives. He said that there are 24 districts in the county's eight school districts who will organize and press the drive.

The organization now has a full-time secretary in Forest Park (the only employee), Fleming said, and has a warehouse for storing food and clothes which are given to needy people.

(in Buford). Lake Tara and Lovejoy currently are without city chiefs.

To all these corporate civic units a letter has gone out from Atlanta Mayor Hartsfield, asking them to proclaim M-Day.

"Our towns and cities have grown together during the past century until our life and economy are enfolded into the South's greatest metropolitan area," the mayor said. "I and the citizens of Atlanta look forward to sharing with your citizens the great future that this first million mark promises."

Saturday marks the day that Metropolitan Atlanta, defined by the U.S. Bureau of Census, will enter the million population class.

METROPOLITAN AREA'S COUNTIES

Industry Pickup Sparks Clayton

Clayton County, southernmost of the five counties which make up soon-to-be-a-million metropolitan Atlanta, is a fast growing combination of farming and industry.

Clayton was created from parts of Fayette and Henry counties in 1838. It was the 125th county to be set up in Georgia.

On Aug. 31 and Sept. 1, 1864, was fought the Battle of Jonesboro, where General Sherman's forces defeated Confederate forces to gain control of the railroad leading into Atlanta.

One in a series on counties of the Metropolitan area.

The Northern victory at Jonesboro made Atlanta's fall certain. For six weeks, Sherman's forces had tried unsuccessfully to take the city. In mid-August, he left Jonesboro, the county seat, was first known as Leaksville. When the Central of Georgia Railroad was extended there, citizens decided to name it in honor of Samuel G. Jones, one of the civil engineers who surveyed the line.

Today Clayton bustles with a growing population. The city of Forest Park has been called the fastest growing in the nation.

Clayton's other municipalities—Mountain View, Lake City, Riverdale, Morrow and Lake Tara—are growing, too.

Like DeKalb County, Clayton until recent years, depended upon agriculture as its main source of income but now is trying to industrialize. One of the county's busiest centers is the new State Farmers Market.

Clayton covers 149 square miles, ranks 156th in geographical size among Georgia's 159 counties. Clayton is the smallest county in Metropolitan Atlanta.

Its 1959 population estimate is 38,500. It ranks 34th in the state in population, based on 1950 census figures, and fourth among the Metropolitan Area counties.

The Clayton County government is headed by E. T. George of Morrow, county commission chairman. Other commission members are B. C. Haynie of Rte. 3, College Park, and T. A. Starr of Forest Park.

Joseph Franklin Britt, 34, of Griffin, was run over by a car on Georgia 16 near Griffin.

The patrol quoted the driver of the car, William Donald Bolt of LaGrange, as saying he saw an object lying in the road but didn't realize it was a man until he turned around and went back to the scene.

$100,000 Blaze Hits Camilla Gin

A spectacular pre-dawn fire destroyed a two-story cotton gin in the heart of Camilla Sunday. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

The fire, at the B&B Warehouse and Gin Co., threatened to spread through the Camilla business section before eight firefighters, led by Chief James B. Spence, managed to contain it.

"When I saw the fire as we came out of the station, it looked like the whole center of town was on fire," Spence said.

The metal-covered building caved in as firemen arrived.

Origin of the blaze has not been determined.

The cotton gin, established in 1900, was one of the oldest in the southwest Georgia section.

Lava From Hawaii

A piece of native lava from Hawaii, the newest state, will be officially presented to representatives of Roosevelt's Little White House at Warm Springs in a special ceremony at the South-eastern Fair in Atlanta Tuesday.

It will be added to the "Stones of the States" collection at the famous cottage, in which all of the states, except Alaska, will then be represented. The Alaskan stone is expected shortly.

Burglary Suspects

Police said Sunday that three suspects have been arrested in connection with the theft of $320 in silver dollars and an undetermined amount of merchandise at a Rockmart food market.

Sheriff John Redding identified the three as Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Shelley of Tallapoosa, and Edwin McGowan of Atlanta. Burglars broke into the market by cutting a hole in the roof.

Driver Killed as Car Slams Tree, Raising State's Weekend Toll to 4

The death Sunday night of a 24-year-old Carrollton man raised to four the number of weekend Georgia traffic fatalities, the State Patrol reported.

The patrol said James Monroe Motes of Carrollton died at 7:30 p.m. Sunday after his car struck a tree and overturned Saturday night near Carrollton.

Three other weekend victims, all pedestrians, were killed Saturday.

In addition, 3-year-old John Mark Yarbrough of Tifton died in a Macon hospital Sunday of injuries received Friday when he was struck by a car near his home while chasing a football.

The State Patrol said Howard Simmons, 78, of Rte. 1, Empire, was run over by a truck on U.S. 23 about eight miles north of Eastman. The truck stopped to give Simmons a ride, was hit from the rear by another vehicle and pushed forward over the pedestrian, the patrol said.

Ben Abram, 45, of Oconee, died several hours after he was hit by a truck while walking on Georgia 68 several miles south of Tennesse.

Joseph Franklin Britt, 34, of Griffin, was run over by a car on Georgia 16 near Griffin.

The patrol quoted the driver of the car, William Donald Bolt of LaGrange, as saying he saw an object lying in the road but didn't realize it was a man until he turned around and went back to the scene.

GOP Asks 36 Billion Yearly for Science

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 36-billion-dollar annual government outlay for America's scientific expansion by 1976 was proposed Sunday in a Republican committee report.

Forecasting vast technological developments in the next 17 years, a GOP task force said current scientific spending of about 10 billion dollars a year must be more than tripled to prepare for revolutionary changes in the American way of life.

BUDGET NOT MENTIONED

The task force, headed by Charles E. Ducommun, 46-year-old Los Angeles metals executive, made no mention of the impact any such an expenditure would have on efforts to balance the federal budget. The total proposed is only about five billion dollars less than now goes for national defense each year.

But the GOP task force—as an arm of the progress committee set up by the Republican National Committee to peer into the future—said it is against “vast new spending programs directed from Washington.” It said government must play only a partnership role with private enterprise in scientific developments, not run the show.

PHYSICAL EASE

The task force foresaw a wondrous life of physical ease in 1976 for 237 million Americans who could think advanced thoughts while machines took care of the drudgery of production.

This is the picture it painted for the years ahead: Relaxing in weather-conditioned homes, Americans will view three-dimensional color television. They will lift the telephone and be assured of automatic and simultaneous translation of the language of any country they call. Or they will take a supersonic plane and fly to the foreign clime at a 2,000-mile-an-hour clip.

Of course, there would be some drawbacks. Some pesky foreign nation might start orbiting reconnaissance satellites over the United States. It might even equip these satellites with weapons.

The task force figured the first American spaceman would land on the moon in 1970 and colleagues would reach other planets by 1976. By that time, or even before, private enterprise would be launching its own satellites, the group predicted.

What the Republican party needs to do about all this, the report said, is to keep its faith in the individual, his right to opportunity and freedom and his “ability to order his own life and to be a responsible person.”

BARGAIN DAY DOZE — LONGVIEW, Wash. — Darrell Hooper, 14-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Hooper of Longview, dozed peacefully in a box of goods already sold while bargain hunters picked through items on all sides of him at a Rotary Club country sale. BABY SICK; NO FOOD

Stranded Family Sought in Snow

WESTCLIFFE, Colo. (UPI) — U.S. Army snow weasels plowed through heavy snow Sunday in an attempt to rescue a family reportedly marooned with a sick baby and without food or heat at their ranch in Colorado's rugged Sangre de Cristo Mountains.

An Army spokesman reported that the family had been stranded, possibly since Sept. 23, when heavy snow began falling in the area. The spokesman, Maj. A.L. Anderson, Fort Carson, Colo., said many families in the area have not been heard from for “almost two weeks.”

CATTLE PERILED

Maj. Andersen was in command of a 25-man detachment from Fort Carson which arrived on the scene Saturday night and made preparations to round up an estimated 10,000 head of snowbound cattle.

The animals, both dairy and beef cattle, were “starving to death,” Andersen said, and many had broken legs in the four foot deep snow.

The rescue party included an Army helicopter, several bulldozers, scraper-equipped trucks and Colorado Highway Department rotary snow plows in addition to the Army weasels.

ROOFS COLLAPSE

“The situation is quite serious,” Andersen reported. His detachment was joined by soldiers and equipment from the U.S. Army Ordnance Depot at Pueblo, Colo.

The roof of the movie theater in Westcliffe and two other buildings in the small mountain town have collapsed from the weight of the snow. Westcliffe is about 140 miles almost due south from Denver and is about 10,000 feet above sea level.

Hope Fades For Talks in Dock Strike

U.S. Move Likely In Day or Two

By JACQUES NEVARD

(Copyright 1959, The New York Times Co.) NEW YORK—Hope was all but abandoned Sunday night for a meeting Monday afternoon between union and management in the bitter East and Gulf Coast dock strike—four days old Sunday.

It was expected that unless some signs of progress were shown Monday the administration would move in the next day or two for an 80-day Taft-Hartley Act injunction.

After a weekend of rest and reflection, neither employers nor dockers gave any indication that they were ready to budge from the positions that have barred joint talks since the walkout began.

CALL STRIKE ILLEGAL

In a strong statement, the employers, represented by the New York Shipping Assn., reiterated their view that the strike was illegal and their determination not to resume bargaining before Oct. 16, unless the men went back to work sooner.

Capt. William V. Bradley, president of the 70,000-member International Longshoremen's Assn., said the union would meet with the employers “any time” but would not go back to work without a contract.

The employers' reason for refusing to meet the union before Oct. 16 was that last Wednesday, on the day of expiration of their old contract, the shipping association and the ILA agreed to extend the old contract another 15 days in an effort to reach agreement on a new one without a strike. The extension covered ports from Searport, Me., to Norfolk, Va.—the area for which the New York employer unit bargains—and provided that any increase in wages would be retroactive.

STARTED IN SOUTH

That same night, after employers in the South refused to promise retroactivity, southern dockers walked out and the Northern majority of the union joined them. The employers held this was an abrogation of the extension agreement.

In his statement Sunday, Alexander P. Chopin, chairman of the employer group, said:

“The New York Shipping Assn. holds a signed document from the ILA agreeing to this extension, and the association's counsel considered it legal grounds for claims against the ILA in any damages resulting from Capt. Bradley's surprising decision to order a strike.”

The union has contended the New York employers “control” the shipping associations in the South and Gulf, and one of its master demands has been that Chopin's organization negotiate at least “master contract” items on behalf of all employers from Maine to Texas.

Gales Rip Southwest; Thousands Homeless

The Red Cross estimated more than 1,000 homes were damaged by floods in Oklahoma alone. The agency said flood waters had affected 1,979 Sooner families or approximately 8,000 persons. Most had fled to higher ground. Others waited it out, hoping the water would recede.

The Texas twisters danced through Savoy and Mulberry, near Bonham, Pecan Gap in East Texas, Everman south of Fort Worth, Dal-Rock in north Dallas County, New Mesquite and Tidwell, near Farmersville, Smithville and Terrell.

Most of the communities are in the general Fort Worth-Dallas area.

Mrs. Renona Hightower, Dallas Negro, was visiting in the New Mesquite community. One of the twisters came racing in from the southwest. She was blown 300 feet and the house destroyed. It took almost an hour's search through splintered boards and trees to find her two-year-old girl, Rena. She was lying another 150 yards away in a field. A mattress had fallen on her and protected her from debris raining down.

Probably the heaviest rain was an unofficial 18 inches that drenched the Johnny Wendel ranch near Fredericksburg, Tex.

An estimated 200 persons were homeless at the Fort Worth suburb of Richland Hills, another 200 at San Angelo.

Rains of six to 10 inches were

SKITS TO BE USED

6,300 To Train For Fund Drive

Approximately 6,300 volunteer workers in the United Appeal residential campaign will attend training meetings to be held at suburban theaters this week.

G. Maynard Smith, chairman of the Atlanta and North Fulton Division, said that volunteer canvassers attending the meetings will receive full information about their massive doorbell ringing job.

“We even plan to present skits showing them just what to expect when they call on contributors, and we will provide them with facts for use in answering questions about the United Appeal,” Smith said.

The first meeting, covering the Southwest, West Fulton and Ben Hill high school areas, will be held at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Gordon Theater. Chairman of the residential division in that area is Rod Davidson, of Lynhurst drive, SW.

Residential division workers for the Northside, North Fulton, Alpharetta, Roswell and Sandy Springs High School areas will meet at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Buckhead Theater. Co-chairmen for this group are Mrs. Grady Lee, of Ridgewood road, NW and Mrs. Forrest Armstrong, of West Wesley road, NW.

3,500 Workers Vote End To Chrysler Parts Strike

DETROIT (UPI)—United Auto Workers Union members voted Sunday to end a strike at the Chrysler Corp. plant in Twinsburg, Ohio, that threatened to cripple the industry, it was announced here.

UAW Vice President Norman Matthews, head of the union's Chrysler department, said in Detroit that 3,500 workers at the key stamping plant ratified by a two-to-one vote an agreement reached Saturday between the union and the company.

The strike, which began last Tuesday, halted production of metal stamped parts for all Chrysler 1960 models, except the Imperial and the Valiant, and threatened to force layoff of 50,000 Chrysler workers.

The company had already laid off 1,800 employees and was expected to begin laying off another 45,000 workers Monday.

Matthews said the company agreed to make a number of improvements in working, health and safety conditions.

WHAT MAKES A WOMAN INTERESTING?

Do you know what sets her apart from others who may be better looking?

The “different” woman, the woman whom others regard as interesting and likeable has by instinct or training, developed subtle social know-how that enhances everything she does. These differences, which are psychological, not mechanical, are the acquired skills that make the good hostess, the attractive wife, the move ahead career girl. Dorothy Carnegie, president of the famous Dale Carnegie Courses, has created a special course for women that deals not with charm but with living—at your best.

actual cut in take-home pay in the first year. This would occur because the workers would be required to match the increased company outlays for hospitalization, health and other forms of insurance.

This would cost each worker roughly 3 cents an hour in the first year of the proposed agreement and would leave him only 2 cents an hour ahead of his present earnings at the end of the second year, according to the union's calculations. Pre-strike wages averaged $3.10 an hour.

The union objected to the total benefits offered by the companies on the ground that they were too low in the light of the industry's record profits and the upward march of wages for millions of workers in less prosperous industries this year.

However, a more fundamental objection was that the package was made conditional on union agreement to give the companies a freer hand to eliminate restrictive local work practices, to change work schedules and crew sizes and to discipline strikers.

The union took the view that the proposed changes would restore "industrial slavery" and deprive its members of gains they had won over 20 years.

Another union complaint was that the management proposal would wipe out the cost of living escalator clause in the old contract. This had brought the workers 17 cents an hour in pay increases in the last three years. These were in addition to the 45½ cents an hour in fixed benefits guaranteed by the basic terms of the expired agreement.

Much of the 90-minute meeting in the J.Penn Sheraton Hotel was taken up with statements by the district directors that the union rank-and-file was solid in its determination to resist the industry demands for more authority over plant work practices and the elimination of jobs. The directors said that the rigors of 12 weeks of payless paydays had brought relatively few appeals for emergency financial aid and no pressure for ending the tie-up on the company terms.

The press secretary replied that is exactly this country's position. At no time, however, did Hagerty say anything to discount general expectation that the heads of government of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union will meet—quite likely before Eisenhower visits the Soviet Union next spring.

Hagerty noted that at his news conference last Monday Eisenhower said "many of the objections I have heretofore held" to a summit conference had been wiped out as a result of his talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The President made it clear at the time he was speaking mainly of Khrushchev's agreement to negotiate on the West Berlin problem with no fixed time limit.

through the clouds. On arrival over Albany Airport, however, Stultz said he lacked instruments to land in the ground fog that covered the area. The DC6 then led the small plane about 10 miles to Schenectady Airport, where Stultz landed.

The airliner returned to Albany to refuel. An airline spokesman said that although the passengers had been inconvenienced by the hour-long rescue, most of them were quite thrilled by it.

As for Stultz, he canceled his Buffalo trip and took off for Mansfield. Officials at Schenectady Airport said he did not appear shaken by the ordeal.

But he was quoted as saying: "I got hungry up there."

proceeds and hopes that rockets now under development would put this country back in the contest in the early 1960s.

Dr. T. Keith Glennan, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, reacted to the triumph of the Russians with a statement that has now become almost standard for such occasions:

"The announcement by the scientists of the Soviet Union of the successful launching of their third space probe has been received here with considerable interest."

"We recognize the significance of this effort to send a probe around the moon and extend our congratulations."

"With the rest of the world scientific community we shall await the data from this new probe in its journey between the earth and the moon."

The Soviet success in sending a heavy payload around the moon was regarded as further proof of the now accepted fact that the Soviet Union is well advanced in the development of powerful rockets and guidance systems to direct them into precise orbits. This, officials said, was "the significance" of the Soviet effort referred to in Dr. Glennan's statement.

In the view of officials, however, the overriding importance of the Soviet space rocket was more psychological than technical. With a timing which could only by deliberate, the space probe launching coincided with the second anniversary of the first Soviet satellite—a Soviet feat which dealt a severe blow to U.S. technological prestige throughout the world and which has been exploited ever since by the Russians for propaganda and diplomatic purposes.

This Soviet proclivity to time space launching for their psychological impact was demonstrated three weeks ago when a Soviet rocket landed on the moon shortly before Premier Khrushchev's arrival in the United States.

From the wording of the Soviet announcement, officials believed that the Soviet Union would exploit the latest feat for propaganda purposes, as a step toward a round trip to the moon by human explorers.

For the space administration there was the additional irony in the timing of the Soviet space probe, since it had planned to send a payload into orbit around the moon about now. These plans went up in smoke when the launching rocket for the lunar satellite exploded during a static test last month.

If U.S. officials were impressed but not alarmed over the new Soviet space exploit, it was because they knew that such a space probe was well within the Soviet capability. Furthermore, they had been forewarned by Khrushchev himself to expect another Soviet space spectacular.

The general reaction of U.S. space officials was reflected in this comment by Dr. Herbert F. York, director of research and engineering in the defense department:

"I wish it were different, but there is nothing you can do to change the clock back."

earth. It would be difficult to calculate a course so that the moon could be looped on later circuits.

At latest report the rocket was reported by Soviet astronomers to have reached a distance of 112,500 miles from the earth.

Prof. D. V. Martynov of the Astronomic Council of the Academy of Sciences told a Moscow TV audience that the satellite was "no longer observable by optical means from any point on the globe."

The space vehicle was still being tracked, however, by its radio signals which came back as violin-like sounds.

10 TIMES GREATER

Prof. V. Dorodninin said that the energy required for launching just the payload of the rocket "was 10 times that needed to launch the Soviet Sputnik two years ago."

The thrust of the first Sputnik's rocket has never been made public.

Another member of a TV panel of scientists, Prof. E. K. Federov, said the launching velocity of the rocket had to be calculated "with the precision of about one meter a second or one-hundredth of one per cent."

The launching came on the second anniversary of the first Sputnik ever sent aloft. It is the third Soviet shot at the moon. The first, Jan. 2, missed the moon and was said to have gone in orbit around the sun. The second, on Sept. 12, hit the moon Sept. 14.

Just why the space vehicle was called an interplanetary station was a mystery. It is one of the smallest projectiles the Russians have launched.

It hardly fits the description of a station that has been proposed by scientists—a platform which would serve as a base out in space.

There was little indication what equipment it carried other than two radio senders. But Soviet scientists said it would give a mass of new information about that part of the moon which has been hidden from man since the beginning of time.

NOT EXTENSIVE STUDY

The projectile can be observed on its course along both sides of the equator, but the best observation is from the Northern Hemisphere.

Felix Zigel, scientific commentator for Moscow radio, said the projectile will not make an extensive study of the moon. He said such a study will come later from a rocket timed to orbit around the moon.

Zigel said the flight was controlled by stations in the Soviet Union, which guided it into its proper orbit before the final stage of the rocket broke away and left the scientific machine to fly its own way. However, the final-stage rocket rode right along behind with some equipment of its own.

The Soviet announcement said the space station is on a course that should take it around the moon at a distance of about 10,000 kilometers — about 6,200 miles. Then it should swing back toward earth.

"The equipment carried by the latest rocket will make it possible, with the help of special transmitters, to obtain data from the part of the moon which cannot be observed from the earth," Barbashev said in an interview over Moscow radio.

Soviet physicist Lev Ponaeyon of Leningrad said data from the unseen side of the moon will help to determine its shape and distribution of mass. He said this would be of tremendous help in manned space flights.

Soviet scientists predicted the space station would stay aloft for a long time because it will approach no closer than 1,240 miles to the earth.

"The space station will soar out at the most distant point of its orbit to about 240,000 miles from the earth to the vicinity of the moon, British scientists estimated.) The space station sent back its first signals about 1 p.m. when it was about 67,000 miles above the Indian Ocean.

"Attention, attention dear comrades," said Moscow radio. "Listen now to the signals coming in from the cosmos, from the third cosmic rocket launched today."

Then came the signals, sounding like the notes of a violin at A above middle C.

It was not until later that Moscow radio announced the space station should be able to photograph the cold, black side of the moon.

Eugeniy Bogoyavlenskiy, science correspondent of Tass news agency, said in a broadcast: "One can reasonably suppose that these unique photographs will be successfully transmitted by automatic radio apparatus when the station returns toward the earth."

"The distance of 10,000 kilometers at which the flight around the moon will take place is sufficient for the whole reverse side of the moon to be photographed."

Who'll Get the Break at Knoxville?

By MICKEY LOGUE

There is an old Chinese proverb that says, "Breaks mean more in a Georgia Tech-Tennessee football game than chicken in chop suey."

Both teams are prone to play each other closer to the vest than a gravy stain and, consequently, a fumble here or an interception there frequently is decisive.

A more recently phrased axiom, attributed to another Tiger Dynasty, the "Wun Lost 3-0" branch, remembers ominously, "Many gridiron giants go to Knoxville to die."

Auburn, of course, was the latest, and Tech need turn the pigskin pages back no further than 1955 to recall being tied there by a supposedly weaker Tennessee outfit.

Since Tech has a 3-0 record going and hasn't beaten Tennessee at Shields-Watkins Field in a decade, and the equally surprising Vols have an unsullied 2-0 record, nobody will have to stimulate the sophomore-studded Jackets with a verbal needle this week.

But after watching Tennessee force and capitalize on Mississippi State errors for a 22-6 victory, scout Jim Carlen warned:

"When you knock 'em down you'd better sit on 'em. Otherwise they'll get up and beat you."

"Seriously, Tennessee probably has the best 'second effort' that we'll face all season. You may beat 'em on initial contact at the line of scrimmage, but they react fast and still stop plays for no gains. They're in perfect condition."

What is the major difference between Tennessee and Tech's first three opponents, Kentucky, SMU and Clemson?

"Tennessee takes fewer chances than the others and makes fewer mistakes," Carlen replied.

Despite the fact that Tennessee employs the single wing and Tech the T, they probably play the most similar style football of any teams in the Southeastern Conference.

"That's right," Tech's Bobby Dodd agreed. "We try to use a good, sound kicking and defensive game. We try to keep our mistakes to a minimum, and hope to cash in opposing errors. Tech and Tennessee follow this plan more than any other teams in the league."

Since both Dodd and Tennessee's Bowden Wyatt learned their football in General Bob Neyland's school of successful conservatism, this similarity is no coincidence.

Tech is The Constitution's SEC Team of the Week for its impressive triumph over previously unbeaten Clemson. The Tech-Tennessee winner conceivably could become the SEC team of the year.

Not since Tennessee escaped Tech, 6-0, in 1956 has this important series carried such significance. John Majors directed the Grant Field success that highlighted Tennessee's unbeaten season. It was Tech's only defeat.

After two lean years, Tech (7) and Tennessee

(9) are in the national top 10 and should advance in this week's poll.

Another Majors, John's younger brother Bill, is the Vols' No. 1 tailback. He swiped two passes against Auburn and, after shaking off a head injury, grabbed another from State.

Gene Etter, Tennessee's touchdown-minded second tailback, and Majors give the Orange and White authoritative field generalship. And sophomore Glenn Glass' last-quarter push against State indicated further reserve strength.

"Tennessee's end play was terrific against State," Carlen said. "Cotton Letner and Mike LaSorsa contained the wide stuff. When Billy Tohill ran 56 yards for a touchdown, the end had made a perfect play on Bill Schoenrock."

Tennessee's depth is impressive. They have two units of nearly equal ability. Those eight interceptions in two games show how strong their

Furillo's Hit Sinks Chisox

Drysdale 3-1 Winner
Before Record 92,294

By OSCAR FRALEY

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Carl Furillo, one of the old heroes out of the eastern past, smashed the same kind of a hit which won Los Angeles its first National League flag Sunday to give the Dodgers a 3-to-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox and a 2-to-1 game World Series lead.

The largest crowd in Series history—92,294 sun-seared spectators—sent a roar of approval into the bright blue California sky as the Dodgers ended a magnificent six-inning pitching job by towering Dick Donovan by filling the bases in the seventh.

Then it was Furillo, one of the old Flatbush heroes, stepping to the plate in the first Series game even seen in the Golden West. The Dodgers needed a hit this time—just as they had in the second playoff victory over the Milwaukee Braves which sent them into the classic.

And the aging coal miner from the Pennsylvania hills, facing relief pitcher Gerry Staley, did it the same way—another blast which skittered through the infield just to the left of second base and sent two runs churning home for another payoff Dodger victory.

That was enough to make tall Don Drysdale, the National League strikeout king, the victor even though the White Sox chased him in the eighth as they got one run back. But young Larry Sherry came on to choke them off with a run after the bases were filled with none out—and hitting hero Charlie Neal doubled home a cushion run in the bottom of the eighth to sew it up.

It was a tough, hard game in which the Dodgers fought all the way with their backs to the wall. For, while Donovan was setting them down with only one hit through the first six innings—facing only three men per inning in that time—the rampaging White Sox were giving Drysdale a rough go. In the first three innings alone they stranded seven men and when it was over they had left 11 runners on the bags.

But the Dodgers fought them off, inning after inning. The White Sox, noted for their speed, scrambled—and catcher Johnny Roseboro threw out three of them. Those White Sox battered the left field screen with no less than five hits while the Dodgers could only hit "the thing" once. Yet always, except for that one run yielded in the eighth, the Dodgers choked them off and finally pulled it out on the clutch smash of the man they brought from Brooklyn with the franchise.

They were writing baseball history as they went out into the oval expanse of the Coliseum in 88-degree heat. For those 92,294 fans—sun bathing without shirts and wearing every description of sun hat—constituted a crowd which broke the Series record of 86,288 at Cleveland in 1948 against the Braves. It wasn't the biggest, the Dodgers having drawn 93,103 for a Roy Campanella exhibition against the Yankees last May. But it must have been the loudest.

For they roared, cheered and pleaded as the White Sox got three on with only one out in the first and then put three runners aboard in the second but left two of them on base the other going out stealing. In the third, the White Sox had two runners and again they died on the sacks.

Inning after inning they had their chances, but two were left aboard in the seventh and others were wiped out in double plays or by that Roseboro arm which threw out three men trying to steal and didn't contest the advance the only time a White Sox was safe trying to advance on the team's touted speed.

The Extravagant Chisox

Economy keynoted the first Chicago Chisox pennant in 40 years. Al Lopez' Go-Go guys seldom wasted a base hit and they'd sweep a series with six or seven runs. They specialized in squeezing the maximum out of minimum opportunities.

In the World Series, however, the Chisox have suddenly become a group of spendthrifts, and Sunday afternoon they were as extravagant as Sordani Jr.

Outlar

Jim Gilliam and Billy Goodman tapped an inning-ending roller to Gil Hodges.

Dick Donovan's tremendous pitching was the Chisox' lone link with greatness as the Dodgers assumed a 2-1 edge in the Series before a record crowd of 92,294 paying customers.

For six innings Donovan was only pitch shy of perfection. Gil Hodges stroked a single in the second, but a double play enabled Donovan to face a minimum of 18 batters over the six-inning span.

—Donovan Operated on a Zero Budget

Chisox pitchers are accustomed to operating on a low budget and Donovan, who is covering the Series for Constitution readers, had typed after the 11-0 romp in the opener: "Man, we Chicago pitchers don't get those kind of leads to work behind very often."

Though Drysdale flirted with disaster until he was yanked in the eighth, Donovan was never supplied a lead. In fact, Drysdale survived longer than Donovan, and eventually claimed the victory.

The only statistic of importance is on the scoreboard, and Drysdale was even with Donovan rolling into the seventh.

With one away in this stanza, Charlie Neal, who had struck two homers Friday, singled for the second Dodger hit. Neal advanced as Wally Moon grounded out, and Norm Larker worked Donovan for the first Dodgers walk. When Gil Hodges walked on five pitches, Lopez waved in Gerry Staley.

Thus Donovan entered the exit as the first Dodger runner of the game reached third. The ex-Cracker reluctantly departed and later remarked that he wasn't tired. But, as Donovan pointed out, Lopez won a pennant and he had a 9-10 record.

It appeared the proper move, for Donovan had lost his pin-point control, and the steady Staley had bailed Chisox pitchers out of jam after jam in 67 regular season relief stints.

—Fate Foreclosed on the Go-Go Guys

Carl Furillo, an old hero of Brooklyn vintage, was summoned from the bench to bat for Don Demeter as the tension mounted. Two pitches later fate foreclosed on the Chisox. Furillo took the first one, then rammed a hit up the middle. Neal and Larker buzzed home and the third game of the World Series had been decided. Staley said he threw a slider; Furillo said he hit a sinker. At any rate, it sank the Chisox.

Opportunity, which had rapped on the Chisox door all day, knocked loudly again in the eighth. But all Chicago got out of it was a new Dodger pitcher.

Drysdale, who had miraculously wiggled off the hook all the way, was yanked after Kleszewski singled and Lollar's fly to right fell for a hit to launch the eighth. At that stage, Manager Walter Alston decided on Sherry, and the rookie again poured it on the Chisox. He had closed out Friday's rally in Chicago, and he did the same in L.A.

After slipping two strikes past Goodman, he hit the batter to load the bases. Sherry then chilled the Chisox by inducing Al Smith to rap into a double play. Kleszewski registered the lone Chicago run on the play, before Jim Rivera popped out.

The A.L. champs are going with Early Wynn in the fourth game Monday, but unless they display more Go Go, they're goners. Perhaps they'll bounce back, but I don't think so. As mentioned in this space at the outset, L.A. appears a solid choice to win three straight in the Coliseum.

Regardless of the outcome, both teams will literally cash in. The record turnout Sunday poured $280,026.00 into the players' jackpot, swelling the total to $611,096.86. Since the SRO sign is already up for Monday, they'll get about the same slice in the fourth game. It looks now as though the Dodgers will be slicing up the 60 per cent share of the near $900,000 melon.

Fred Haney Resigns at Milwaukee

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Fred Haney resigned Sunday night as manager of the Milwaukee Braves of the National League.

Haney, who led the Braves to two pennants and one world championship in 3 1/2 years, met with owner Lou Perini, President Joseph Cairns, Vice-President Birdie Tebbets and General Manager John McHale to discuss his future.

He was offered a one-year contract to return as Braves' manager but turned it down. Haney said he was perfectly happy with the Braves but that he wanted to spend more time with his family.

"It is not fair to myself or to my family with whom I have not

THE DONOVAN REPORT FIRST SERIES APPEARANCE EXCITING...EVEN IF A LOSER

By DICK DONOVAN

Chicago White Sox Pitcher and Ex-Atlanta Cracker
LOS ANGELES, Calif.—What can you say after you've lost?

My brief journalistic career hasn't prepared me for being enthusiastic after a losing game. The Dodgers beat me in the third game of the World Series Sunday and it is a mild understatement to say I'm disappointed. Mind you now, disappointed; not discouraged.

I kind of feel like a prize fighter calling for a return bout. Seriously, I would like another shot at those Dodgers.

No one likes to win any more than I do. I wanted like hell to win this one, but every time I go out to pitch, I go out to win. I can't say I tried any harder to win this game than any other.

Someone came up to me in the dressing room and asked me if Manager Al Lopez took me out in the seventh because I was tired. I'll answer that question with (1) No, I wasn't tired, and (2) Al didn't ask me.

I'd like to get something straight. Whatever my personal feelings are on being taken out of a game, Lopez is the manager and he calls the shots. He has done all right; he won the pennant. And he called in Gerry Staley after I had loaded the bases in the seventh. Staley has saved games for us all year.

Al didn't ask me anything; he didn't have to. Like I say, he is the manager and he makes the decisions. Which is the way it should be. No pitcher likes to be taken out, but that's beside the point.

Carl Furillo hits a sinker and the Dodgers get two runs. It could have happened to me had I stayed in the game. I guess it was just their day.

I will say that this, my first appearance in a World Series, was a pretty exciting thing. I felt

Mistakes Stalled Bulldogs' Attack

By AL THOMY

Georgia's defeat at Columbia Saturday afternoon can be summed up briefly: Damaging mistakes that resulted in poor field position.

South Carolina coach Warren Giese knew that the Bulldogs were a passing team. Georgia coach

Wally Butts knew his club had to get the ball into the air to circumvent a monstrous Gamecock line. It was his firm belief that South Carolina could be passed on.

But—Fumbles and a block punt forced the Bulldogs into a conservative first half attack deep in their territory, and also supplied South Carolina with a two-touchdown lead.

With Captain-right halfback Don Soberdash out, the Bulldogs counted on left half Fred Brown for running punch, and when he was hurt in the first quarter, it was pass or nothing.

Quarterbacks Francis Tarkenton and Charley Britt did pass, and amazingly well against a line reputed to be toughest in the South, but the Gamecocks had their cushion by the time T&B got in position to pitch. Nonetheless, Tarkenton hit on 14 of 20 and Britt had a perfect afternoon, 3 for 3.

Butts Selected

Coach Wally Butts of Georgia has been named to the coaching staff of the South squad in the annual Blue-Gray game at Montgomery Dec. 26. He will share Rebel duties with Frank Howard of Clemson and Johnny Vought of Ole Miss.

Georgia halfbacks posted a commendable pass-reception report card in defeat. Left half Bobby Walden caught seven, right half Bobby Towns three straight for the final touchdown and left half Bill McKenny four, including one for the first score. In all, Britt and Tarkenton connected on 17 of 23 passes.

The South Carolina line was never really tested as the Bulldogs allowed them the easy route to the goal line. Longest SC drive was 28 yards and that was a one-shot run by fullback Phil Lavoie, who scored 20 of the 30 Gamecock points. Other TD excursions went for 17, 12 and 20 yards after Georgia misplays.

Out of the ashes of defeat, the

ARMY, IRISH SURPRISED

Tech, Texas and Wildcats Threaten LSU No. 1 Rating

NEW YORK (AP)—There was no boundary for the mighty in college football Monday as Northwestern, Southern California, Texas and Georgia Tech surged forward to threaten Louisiana State's reign as national champion.

These four widely-separated powers added to their prestige with smashing victories over the weekend while the glitter dimmed for four other teams high in the rankings—Army, Iowa, Clemson and Notre Dame.

Swift, hard-striking Army was victim of the biggest surprise, beaten 20-14 by an Illinois eleven which had been walloped by Indiana the week before. The Illinoisans used a unique spread formation and the wizardry of a sub quarterback, Mel Meyers, to win convincingly despite the close score. Army was the No. 4 team in the last AP poll.

Second-ranked Northwestern took the measure of No. 5 Iowa, the defending Big Ten champion, in Saturday's headline battle at Iowa City 14-10 while Georgia Tech, No. 7, spun the ratings by throttling sixth-place Clemson 16-6. Notre Dame, No. 8, fell before an old nemesis, Purdue, which won 28-7.

Down in the Lone Star State the old gag of "nothing is certain but death and Texas" was revived when Texas scored its third straight shutout, mauling

California 33-0 in the nationally televised attraction. Southern Cal won its third straight Friday night with an awesome display of power which crushed Ohio State 17-0.

The victory for the Northwestern Wildcats was the first over an Iowa team in 36 years. Aggressiveness and alertness paid for the Cats, who paid a heavy price for the victory. Star quarterback Dick Thornton suffered a fractured ankle while returning the opening kickoff and will be lost for most of the season.

Two sophomores, Johnny Welch and Bobby Gene Harris, starred for Georgia Tech, which rallied after a Clemson back, Bill Mathis, had rocked the Engineers with a 99-yard kickoff return. Rene Ramirez and Jack Collins sparked Texas' flashy attack.

Georgia Tech's opponent next week is Tennessee, which is beginning to look like the powerhouse of the Gen. Bob Neyland era. The Vols, who ended Auburn's winning streak a week ago, beat Mississippi State 26-6.

The other two Dixie titans—top-ranked LSU and third-ranked Mississippi—won handily. LSU racked up its third straight Southwest Conference foe, beating Baylor 22-0. Ole Miss rolled over Memphis State 43-0. LSU plays Miami, Fla., next and Mississippi gets Vanderbilt. Eastern football prestige suffered double damage when Navy followed Army into the losing lists—a 20-7 victim of bounce-back Southern Methodist. But two Eastern independents made themselves felt. Syracuse crushed Maryland 29-0 and Penn State won 58-20 over Colgate.

Three last period passes by Ivan Tonic gave Pitt a 25-21 triumph over UCLA. Pennsylvania thumped Dartmouth 13-0 and became a co-Ivy League favorite with Princeton, 22-0 winner over Columbia.

One of the major surprises of the football-minded Midwest was Michigan State's 34-8 rout of Michigan before 101,001 fans at Ann Arbor—the Spartans' first Big Ten triumph since 1957. Minnesota, next up for Northwestern, topped Indiana 24-14.

Oklahoma bounded back strong from its loss to Northwestern a week ago and smothered Colorado 42-12 for its 72nd Big Eight victory in a row. Oklahoma's opponent Saturday: Unbeaten, untied, unscored on—Texas.

Arkansas emerged as a title contender in the Southwest by edging the defending champion, Texas Christian, 3-0, on a 28-yard field goal by Freddy Akers. The Air Force remained unbeaten, topping Trinity, Tex., 27-6. Duke lived up to its potential with a 24-7 verdict over Rice.

'M-Boys' Bolster Auburn TD Punch

McGeever, Machen Put Zip In Second Unit Backfield

By MICKEY LOGUE

Two sophomore backs who didn't play a second against Tennessee showed enough Saturday against Hardin-Simmons to convince Auburn coaches that their second-unit backfield is back in business.

Fullback John McGeever, assistant coach Buck Bradberry's nominee for the fastest back in Tigtown, rushed for one touchdown and turned a screen pass into another. He also led the team in tackles.

Right halfback Don Machen, a 160-pound passer of determination, threw the block that freed McGeever after the catch. He also supplied a shoulder that allowed Bryant Harward to collect a bonus PAT.

"McGeever and Machen gave our No. 2 backfield more speed and a stronger scoring punch," Bradberry said Sunday. "However, they'll receive their real test against Kentucky here Saturday."

A former high school quarterback, the red-headed McGeever has been tried at end, halfback and fullback as an Auburn freshman and holdout.

Machen has overcome an early September hip injury, and looks like the man to lighten the loss of veteran Bobby Lauder at right half.

PLAIN FACTS—End Joe Leichtnam, guard G. W. Clapp, tackle Billy Wilson and quarterback Bobby Hunt operated as though they planned on keeping the starting positions they were awarded after the Tennessee game. . . . It is still problematical whether Hunt, Richard Wood or Bryant Harward will become the regular starter, Bradberry said. An injury in the Knoxville loss limited Wood's practice time last week, but his passing was deadly in the 15 minutes he faced Hardin-Simmons. . . . Boils kept Harward in the school infirmary until Saturday morning. But he directed a touchdown drive during his brief stint. . . . Auburn had to call time out to put Jackie Burkett's shoulder back in place. . . . Sophomore Dave Edwards served notice on second unit ends they had better be humping. . . . Left half Johnny Kern graded high in films. . . . Tiger coaches expect fullback Ed Dyer to place high among SEC rushing leaders this season. A junior, he is only 19. . . . After a mediocre showing at Tennessee, guard Zeke Smith returned to All-America form.

Frisco and Packers Shaking Up NFL

Guglielmi Prods Redskins; Giants, Colts Upset Victims

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The National Football League standings looked mighty strange Sunday after a wave of upsets hit the 12-team circuit over the weekend.

The only unbeaten teams, both in the Western Conference, are the Green Bay Packers and the San Francisco 49ers. Each had two victories. Baltimore's defending champions had a "one" in the loss column. And the Eastern Conference was deadlocked from top to bottom with each of the six clubs showing a 1-1 record.

Chicago's Bears started the upset fest Saturday night by downing the Colts 26-21 as they tallied all of their points in the first three periods and then staved off a Baltimore rally, in which Johnny Unitas tossed three touchdown passes.

The lightly regarded teams continued on the rampage Sunday with Cleveland brushing aside the Chicago Cards 34-7, the Philadelphia Eagles handing the New York Giants a 49-21 defeat and the Washington Redskins thumping the Pittsburgh Steelers 23-17.

Green Bay's revitalized Packers continued to dumbfound the experts with a 28-10 decision over the Detroit Lions and the 49ers whitewashed the Los Angeles Rams 34-0.

Quarterback Lamar McHan picked up by the Packers during the summer on a trial basis, more than passed his test. He fired four spent much time while managing," he said.

"Nothing whatsoever that happened during the past season influenced my decision," said Haney.

He obviously was referring to the fact that the Braves lost the National League pennant to the Los Angeles Dodgers in a playoff. "All the officials of the club have given me their 100 per cent cooperation," he added. "Right now I have nothing on my mind except to take a vacation with Mrs. Haney."

The 63-year-old Haney replaced Charley Grimm as manager of the Braves on June 15, 1956. He previously had managed the Pittsburgh Pirates and the St. Louis Browns. He spent most of his playing career with the Detroit Tigers.

Haney was a coach with the Braves when he replaced Grimm while the team was in a losing streak. The club promptly won 11 in a row, but lost the pennant on the final weekend of the season to the Dodgers.

Haney won the pennant in '57 and beat the New York Yankees in seven games in the World Series. He won the pennant in '58 but lost to the Yanks in seven games after winning three of the first four.

This year, the Braves dawdled much of the season, catching up in the last two weeks by finally losing when the Dodgers beat them two straight in a best-of-three playoff, ending last Tuesday.

Haney joined the Braves as a coach after he was fired as Pittsburgh manager in 1955.

COWBOYS KEEP BALL WITH PASSES: POSEY

Hardin-Simmons, which plays Georgia in Athens Saturday, believes in the theory that if at first you don't succeed, pass again. The Cowboys will bring one of the country's most colorful offenses to Sanford Stadium, according to Georgia Scout Wyatt Posey, who watched them against Auburn.

"This is a dangerous football team," says Posey. "They use the short pass as another team uses an off-tackle play, to pick up yardage and control the game. Ball control with passing, that's their plan."

"They spread out on about every play, heavy right or left. Against Auburn, they threw 42 passes and completed 18 of them for 131 yards. So you can see they go for short yardage."

Quarterbacks Jim Tom Butler and Harold Stephens do the passing. Posey said the Cowboys also have a couple of fancy-dan runners in Charles Bowers and Gene Uccellini, and a top-rate pass receiver in Sammy Oates, a deaf mute.

The Cowboys ran 77 plays to Auburn's 71, an accomplishment in itself.

Hardin-Simmons' emphasis on passing is not too surprising when it is recalled that its coach is Sammy Baugh, an all-time pitching great with the old Washington Redskins.

Since Georgia also puts the ball in the air, Saturday may be a dangerous afternoon for low-flying sparrows in Athens.—THOMY

Bulldogs looked back on fine individual efforts.

Guard Pat Eby turned in perhaps the scrappiest performance of his career. Three times he shot through to dump Gamecock quarterbacks for losses and temporarily, at least, halt SC drives. Giese called Eby "a real tough lineman, one of the best we've seen this season."

Going a step further, Giese said "the Georgia line lived up to its advance billing. They made it tough on us."

He referred to the first South Carolina touchdown which came on fourth down after the Gamecocks had a first on the two.

When Brown was hurt, the Bulldogs could look to the bench and spot four of their top backs in an incapacitated condition and unavailable for action. The roster included Soberdash, right half George Guisler and fullback Bobby Joe Galbreath.

Trainer Sam Richwine Sunday said Brown reinjured a thigh muscle that was pulled on the first day of practice. He may not get into the Hardin-Simmons game at Athens next Saturday. Soberdash's status is as yet undefined, and Galbreath may be out for the season.

Coaches were unanimous in their praise of McKinney, a sophomore who will see more action as the campaign unfolds.

One loss does not end a season, and the Bulldogs are expected to recover, starting this week with Hardin-Simmons.

Lunsford Wins Peach Feature

Bud Lunsford of Gainesville took the feature event at the Peach Bowl Sunday night, edging out Jack Smith and Charlie Minney of Atlanta. It was a 30-lap event.

Destroy Roaches, Roach Eggs With New Johnston Chemical

Up until now there has been no way to destroy roaches' eggs at the same time you kill roaches. The result has been a reinfestation every incubation period. But now a new chemical discovery in Johnston's NO ROACH kills both roaches and their eggs!

Scientists have discovered a new roach control formula that is:

- (a) Effective against all crawling insects.
- (b) Easy to use.
- (c) Safe to use around children and pets.
- (d) Stays effective for months with only one application.

It's called Johnston's No Roach. When you use No Roach, there's no need to move dishes, or to breathe harmful sprays. Just brush this odorless, colorless liquid on cabinets, baseboards, windowsills, doorsteps, cracks, drainpipes—wherever roaches and ants may enter.

It dries quickly to form an invisible Death Zone for all crawling insects. They walk across it... and die within minutes! Brush on No Roach and forget it for months! It stays effective 24 hours a day.

No Roach works against roaches, ants, waterbugs, spiders, silverfish, all crawling insects. In the 8-oz. bottle only 89c. Pint $1.69. Available at Rich's, Big Apple, Kroger's, Lane's, Winn-Dixie, Jacobs', Walgreen's, and your local drug store.

Rumbold Cites Counterflow Advantages

Delightful, healthful warm air at the floor level—known to heating engineers as "counter flow heat"—will make many more Georgia families cozy and comfortable this winter as sales of the new Empire Imperial room heater continue their steady increase.

Prediction that the new Imperial is headed for new highs in popularity for the 1959-60 season was made by Alan Rumbold, head of Rumbold & Co., Inc., wholesale distributors for Empire in Georgia.

Himself a heating engineer with many years' experience in the field, Mr. Rumbold said: "The principle of counter flow heat is one of the most important advances ever made in room-heater design. The new Empire Imperial delivers warm air at the floor level, where the blower carries it gently to every corner of the room. Result—floors are always warm, and the entire room stays enjoyably comfortable."

As a matter of fact, the new Imperial vented room heater with its exclusive "triple-therm" heat gives more heating comfort THREE ways. Along with the counter-flow heat, this model also offers "gravity heat." Special louver openings at the top permit a flow of warm air into the room, further blanketing it from carpet to ceiling with constant, comfortable heat.

Along with gravity and counter flow, the Empire Imperial offers "radiant heat." The entire front of the unit emits great quantities of radiant heat, flooding your living area with abundant warmth. The family gets the relaxing, satisfying warmth of a fireplace—but in much more efficient, safer, cleaner fashion!

Mr. Rumbold also emphasizes the economy features in the new Empire Imperial. "It's exclusive Universal No-Noise burner and Gas-Tite combustion chamber extract every possible B.T.U. of heat," he said, "to give the Empire owner big savings on his fuel bill all winter long."

The Empire is simple to install.

AIR CONDITION WITH GAS ALL YEAR

At Project 60 House One Gas Unit Heats in Winter, Cools in Summer

When you enter Project 60—"The Research House"—you're stepping into the new age. Like a character in a Science Fiction story, you're suddenly a part of the future. Marvelous, unseen forces are working away for your comfort and convenience.

Project 60 is an all-gas house! Located at 3440 Heartwood Lane, Northcrest Subdivision, in DeKalb County, the beautiful Georgian home is a result of the coordinated efforts of the Home Builders Assn. of Atlanta and their suppliers in this year's Parade of Homes. Combining superior products, design and workmanship, it calls forth the ultimate in modern Southern inside-outside living. And, because this house is "the better way of life" come to life, Project 60 is air conditioned with gas from January through December!

Perfect year 'round climate is achieved with the Arkla-Serve Sun Valley Gas Air Conditioner, available at Atlanta Gas Light Co. The ultra-modern unit has been perfected after years of testing by the manufacturer, the American Gas Assn. and Atlanta Gas Light Co. A low cost gas flame does all the work.

Ease of operation is especially apparent this time of year when the temperature is erratic. Too chilly or too warm?—you have only to change the temperature setting of the thermostat.

With no moving parts to wear or cause loss of efficiency, the gas unit operates quietly and without vibration. The hermetically sealed unit promises years of dependable, trouble-free performance.

Incidentally, since the Sun Valley gas air conditioner is entirely factory-assembled, it is easy to install, and the unit requires just a few square feet of floor space.

In addition to the cooling-heating air conditioner, Project 60 House creators have made use of numerous other gas conveniences. Among them is the RCA-Whirlpool Gas Refrigerator with Magic Ice-Maker that makes ice cubes without trays and puts them in a basket, automatically, ready for instant use. There are no trays to fill or spill. Ice cubes are automatically replaced and there's a supply always ready. Other products operating on the dependable gas flame include a RCA-Whirlpool gas built-in range with surface unit equipped with automatic top burner; RCA-Whirlpool combination washer-gas dryer, Caloric gas incinerator, and a Hedges automatic gas water heater. And for a hospitable decorative touch, there are gas lights flickering a welcome at the entrance of the house.

To further prove that no stone has been left unturned in the aim to make of Project 60 House a place of carefree living, a Lazy Man's gas char-grill has been installed in the fiber glass-screened patio out back. This innovation leaves the grill artist free to experiment with his condiments and to socialize with his guests.

Project 60 House in the Parade of Homes is open to the public Sundays from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.; weekdays, from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. Drive out the northeast leg of the expressway, turn at first exit beyond Perimeter Rd. bridge and follow Project 60 House signs from there on out.

For additional information, visit or phone your nearest Atlanta Gas Light Co. Phone the downtown Atlanta office at JA. 2-8051.

Huge Selection Available for Delivery Now

Launching of the spectacular line of 1960 "Jet Age" Pontiacs not only drew record crowds and excited commentary last week when 16 new models in four series were presented at Boomershine-Pontiac, 425 Spring St., NW—but the South's leading Pontiac dealer also achieved a new high in sales during the three-day introductory period.

"The 1960 line marks the greatest engineering and styling advances ever achieved by Pontiac," said General Manager Walter Boomershine Jr., "in view of the large number of sales made Thursday, Friday and Saturday, we are confident that the new models will maintain Pontiac's award-winning reputation as America's No. 1 road car."

"We have a large selection of new 1960 Pontiacs," emphasized Mr. Boomershine, "and can promise immediate delivery at this time."

Gentle curves and flowing lines of sculptured beauty readily identify Pontiac's completely new line of cars for 1960. Sensational classic styling and wide track design prevails throughout each series, from the luxurious Bonneville and Star Chief to the Catalina and the new Ventura series.

Priced just above the Catalina models, the two Venturas have elegant interiors in Jewel-tone Morrokide forming ribs of contrasting colors to match with floors of rich, deep pile carpeting. Standard equipment items found on the Ventura sport coupe and Vista include two instrument panel ash trays, an electric clock, "V" design inside handles, custom steering wheel, de luxe wheel discs and instrument panel with special decor.

Heading a list of 47 new features offered with the 1960 Pontiacs is "V" design front end. A massive, sweeping front bumper juts forward below a classical grille formed by seven narrow, gleaming bars with twin headlamps set at either end. The distinctively different grille, the one-piece bumper and the clean, sharp line of the hood enhances the car's overall simplicity and beauty.

Boosted by over 10 million miles of engineering tests Pontiac's Tempest 425 V-8 engine is more powerful and rugged than ever before. Boomershine officials remark, "Available in all four series is a premium fuel, extra high performing 10.75:1 compression ratio engine with three two-barrel carburetors for either

Why Ike Is Cautious On Steel Intervention

NEW YORK—The federal government is being forced to step in to break the deadlock in the steel strike situation—forced by both labor and management.

President Eisenhower isn't anxious to do so because of two major considerations: (1) previous federal intervention fact-finding boards invariably came up with a settlement formula of an inflationary combination of pay raises and offsetting price boosts and (2) an 80-day cooling-off period under the Taft-Hartley law doesn't guarantee a strike end.

The present steel strike is the worst since World War II. Not only are half a million workers in steel mills unemployed, but so are about 200,000 more in related industries. And the prolonged crippling effects of the strike are spreading across the nation forcing numerous factories to lay off workers or close plants.

Even if the President invokes the 80-day law, it'll take a couple of weeks for the industry to gear up to start shipments of ingots and slabs. And then a week or more to process them for use. After that another week before consumer plants swing into production.

An order by the President that steel management and labor dig deep and come up with settlement terms may accomplish something. It might be on a noninflationary basis—wage or fringe increases within gains of worker productivity.

But no matter what the outcome of this steel strike, management and labor have lost prestige with the general public. Make no mistake about it.

BARGAINING SLIDES
In the eyes of the public, free collective bargaining is no longer an instrument for preventing strikes and safeguarding public welfare. It produces nothing but futility and frustration. Proof: the White House had to step in to settle the steel strikes of 1946, 1949, 1952 and 1956 because of economic bloodletting.

George Romney, president of American Motors, expresses the view of almost all business leaders in saying: "Instead of representing democracy at work the collision between two excessive forces always seems to necessitate ultimate intervention by the government to protect the people as consumers; concentration of power both in union and management is now an unthinkable situation in our American economy."

Numerous important industrial firms, and the banking industry, are openly active in educating the public to take an interest in political affairs and legislation.

"A 'guilt-complex,' often more fancied than real, can be easily handled by the competent psychiatrist."—Health column quote.

Sometimes it's hard for one to see... How any man alive could be... So stupid that he tells his wife... The secrets of his early life... And every woman seems to feel... It is her duty to reveal... Her secrets to the man she wed... When they are better left unsaid.

Those things that happened in the past... Should never be allowed to cast... Their shadows on the path that leads... To finer things, to nobler deeds... It's better to make up a list... And visit some psychiatrist... For you can be assured that he... Will listen to you, for a fee... And after all is said and done... He is about the only one... Who stands a chance of getting paid... For all of the mistakes you made.

Well, that's the way it goes with sin... It's not expensive to begin... But like all other things, it's more... Expensive than it was before... And though it's costly, don't forget... It's cheaper than a wife upset.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠ A 10 9 ♦ K J 10 9 8 7 6
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1♥ 2♠
Pass Pass 1♥ 2♠
Pass Pass 1♥ 2♠
Pass Pass 1♥ 2♠

What do you bid now?
A—Two hearts. Even though your original pass limits the contents of your hand, a free bid of two diamonds would not be justified. Your hand is not worth two bids, counting to just nine points. A free raise of partner's suit is the best way to offer encouragement in the right direction.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠ A 10 9 ♦ K J 10 9 8 7 6
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1♥ 2♠
Pass Pass 1♥ 2♠
Pass Pass 1♥ 2♠
Pass Pass 1♥ 2♠

What do you bid now?
A—Three hearts. After the original pass one should be extended on this hand to reach for a game contract. The holding does not quite measure up to a high card content to a jump raise, but it does have good distribution. Furthermore, this call may tend to barter West out of the bidding if he has a delayed spade bid to make.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠ A 10 9 ♦ K J 10 9 8 7 6
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1♥ 2♠
Pass Pass 1♥ 2♠
Pass Pass 1♥ 2♠
Pass Pass 1♥ 2♠

What do you bid now?
A—Three hearts. After the original pass one should be extended on this hand to reach for a game contract. The holding does not quite measure up to a high card content to a jump raise, but it does have good distribution. Furthermore, this call may tend to barter West out of the bidding if he has a delayed spade bid to make.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Leo (July 22-Aug. 21)—Situation at home can be pretty tense right now, and if you are forceful in any way, a battle royal could break out. Be philosophical instead. Virgo (Aug. 22-Sept. 22)—Be very careful before you speak or your meaning might be misunderstood and lots of trouble could ensue. Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)—Remember that fundamental truths never change. Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)—Take care you do not utilize that fine, ingenious way of operating with which Scorpios are endowed.

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—This day is challenging for you inasmuch as you want to follow certain strong intuitive flashes, but they would be to your detriment. Stick to proven friends. Taurus (April 20-May 20)—If you are in high position, there will be some very serious repercussions. Gemini (May 21-June 21)—Any unpleasant situations either at home or outside had best be forgotten now instead of getting upset over them. Get duties done properly. Moon Children (June 22-July 21)—You are desirous of enjoying yourself regardless of feeling of others or the cost. Be with loyal kin or friends instead and avoid risk.

Birthday Over, Quemoy Shelled
TAIPEI (UPI)—Communist Chinese artillery broke a five-day anniversary ceasefire by shelling Big Quemoy Island Saturday night, the Nationalist Chinese defense ministry said. The 41-minute Communist bombardment was the first reported in the Formosa Straits since Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev arrived in Peking for talks with Mao Tse-tung and other Red Chinese leaders. The defense ministry said Communist shore batteries on Amoy fired 116 shells at Big Quemoy. It was the heaviest shelling of the Nationalist offshore islands since Sept. 19.

Is Your Appetite Friend or Enemy?

Is your appetite your friend or your foe? It can be either. The word appetite comes from the Latin appetite, which means to strive after or yearn for. We use it chiefly for the striving for food and drink, which man has always had to do in order to live. Sometimes the word is carried over into other spheres of life.

Appetite is a pleasurable part of living as shown by the phases Bon Appetit! and Buono Appetito! which are the salutations often given by French and Italians before meals and which really mean: May you enjoy your food!

To most of us it does actually mean that agreeable sensation with which we anticipate a meal, especially if our stomachs know that we need food and that what we are about to eat will be savory. When that anticipation feeling has been satisfied the sensation of appetite disappears until our stomach is ready for the next food. An old English proverb says: "Eating and drinking take away appetite." That is our usual experience, but nature makes it only a temporary one.

It is one of the wonders of our body that after the stomach has digested a meal and rested for a while it tells us by certain little tricks of its own that it needs some more work to do to keep us in condition to carry on. These rather pleasant little tricks, if unnoticed and unattended to, can be changed into what are known as the pangs of hunger, and, finally, if still unattended, the stomach becomes so weak with the rest of the body that it can no longer send out its signals for help.

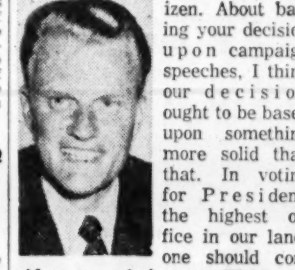

A normal appetite actually makes the digestion of food easier. This is true because it is the preparatory process to digestion. The brain and nervous system, those controlling forces in our

You Should Back Man Of Integrity

QUESTION: As a typical American citizen I am planning to vote for President next year. I really don't know much about politics, and would like some advice. Is it at all possible for the average voter to base his decision upon the campaign talks we hear? — W. E. H.

ANSWER: I am glad you are planning to vote in the presidential election. That is the duty of every good citizen. About basing your decision upon campaign speeches, I think our decision ought to be based upon something more solid than that. In voting for President, the highest office in our land, one should consider several factors. First, we should consider the candidate's record. We should ask: "Is the man I intend to vote for a person of integrity?" Then we should ask: "Is he a man of courage who is not afraid to speak what is on his conscience regardless of the political consequences?" Then of course we should ask: "Is he fitted by experience and training for the office?" There are many good men who "might" make a good president, but in the four crucial years ahead, we need a man whom we can be certain is well qualified for that high office. And then last, we should ask: "Is he a man of faith in God?" Has he openly acknowledged his faith in the Lord and in His precepts?"

BEST STATE BET?

Withheld
Tax Calls
To 13,800

A state income tax withholding plan would collect in advance from 13,800 Georgians who filed personal income tax returns last spring, but failed to include any tax payment.

That, in the opinion of the state's chief income tax collector, would be one of two major advantages of income tax withholding.

Another, said Fielding Dillard, head of the state income tax unit, is it would add to income tax rolls thousands of persons now escaping state income taxes for various reasons.

VANDIVER SUPPORTS BILL

Gov. Vandiver has said a bill to set up an income tax withholding plan similar to the federal government's will be the only tax measure he will submit to the 1960 Legislature.

Most of the 13,800 who failed to include any tax payment along with their income tax returns have been persuaded to pay, Dillard said.

But most of them owed relatively small amounts and the collection is expensive for the state. Postage alone on just one letter each to that many persons costs nearly $600.

BUM CHECK PROBLEM

A similar problem, Dillard said, is the taxpayer who sends a bad check along with his return.

The withholding plan, by having employers withhold the tax, would eliminate both.

It also is well known that the federal government gets many more income tax returns from Georgia citizens than does the state. Of the difference, a large percentage are in the income bracket from which the state does not require returns.

SEEKS EVADERS

Dillard said the income tax unit is making a diligent effort to run them down, but it's difficult and expensive.

That problem, too, would be practically eliminated with a tax withholding plan.

One major drawback to a tax withholding plan has been the problem of making refunds to taxpayers for overpayment through withholding.

Dillard concedes he was assailed by some severe doubts when he first learned of the percentage of taxpayers to whom some of the withholding plan states had to make refunds.

Toshiko Finds Jazz A 'Difficult' Field

By JACK KAPLAN

From the Land of the Cherry Blossom to the Dogwood City, Toshiko has come.

Since her discovery three years ago by jazz impresario Norman Granz, the petite pianist has climbed quickly to the top of the modern jazz ladder. Her performance at the Newport Jazz Festival this year left usually tough critics begging for more.

Manchuria-born Toshiko has studied piano since she was seven. Her father decided she would go to medical school, but "Tosh" was smitten with jazz at 16 when playing with a dance orchestra in Japan. Later, she played with a U.S. Army dance group and was introduced to modern jazz. She was hooked.

Tosh headed her own trio and appeared in coffee houses and on Japanese radio and television.

HAPPY HOLIDAY

Granz heard her while on an Oriental holiday and was so impressed he recorded her on the spot.

In this country Tosh has appeared in such revered jazz palaces as New York's Hickory House and Birdland.

She relaxed in her chair at Atlanta's Top of the Stairs and voiced a complaint that seems to be universal among women:

"It's very difficult being a girl in the jazz field. Everyone thinks, 'Well, she's just another girl piano player.' In Japan, everyone thinks the woman is second best and inferior, but there, I was treated with great respect. It is here, in the United States where women are supposed to be equal, that it is so hard.

"It is very hard in rehearsal to tell a man what you want him to do in a certain passage. The language also makes it difficult to express what I would like the others to do."

Tosh speaks English very well except for an occasional lapse. "Nine out of ten times" becomes "ten out of nine times" when Tosh says it.

Would marriage end her career?

DECEMBER BRIDE

"As a matter of fact, I am getting married in December. I never thought much about boys, but it all happened so quick."

Her fiancé is Charlie Mariano who is currently playing alto sax with the Stan Kenton orchestra.

"I hope we can work out a group together," Tosh said. "I would not like to travel apart like many married people in jazz and show business. But if he had a chance to do something that would be good for him, I would like him to take it."

Would you advise a daughter of your own to play jazz as a profession?

"It is a hard question. No... I think not, unless she had a great deal of talent. It is a hard profession, and I have seen many not so nice people who did not have the talent to make it. Jazz is a great fun, but it is also much work. You must play every day."

The conversation turned to new horizons in jazz.

"Modern jazz is going in two different directions," she said. The 'West Coast School' emphasizes composition and is very technical—some say mechanical.

JAZZ GREAT

Toshiko

cal. The 'East Coast School' is based on soul.

"Many young jazz musicians have great facility on their instruments, but no soul. Jazz must say something as must any art form. Ability and soul have to blend in good jazz."

The public address announced that it was time for Toshiko to play again.

She smiled at the audience and counted off the first tune of her set. Her piano spoke in an international language—art and listeners got the message.

STARLIGHT DOUBLE DELIGHT

CHOCOLATE FROSTING:

6 ounces (2 pkgs.) cream cheese
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 tsp. vanilla
1/2 tsp. mint flavoring
6 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1/4 cup hot water
4 squares (4 oz.) melted unsweetened chocolate

Cream the cream cheese, shortening, vanilla and mint flavoring; blend well. Add confectioners' sugar alternately with hot water. Blend in the chocolate.

CHOCOLATE CAKE

2 1/4 cups sifted all purpose flour
1 1/2 tps. soda
1 tsp. salt
3/4 cup shortening
3 unbeaten eggs
3/4 cup milk

Sift flour with soda and salt. Set aside. Combine shortening and 2 cups of the frosting; mix thoroughly. Blend in eggs beating well after each. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk, beginning and ending with dry ingredients.

Pour into two 9-inch round layer pans, well greased and lightly floured on the bottoms. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 30 to 40 minutes. Cool; frost with remaining Frosting (thin with a few drops cream if necessary).

MY INSPIRATION

1 cup nuts, finely chopped
2 1/4 cups sifted all purpose flour
4 tps. double-acting baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1 1/2 cups sugar
3/4 cup shortening
1 1/4 cups milk
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cup unbeaten egg whites
2 ozs. sweet or semisweet chocolate, grated

Sprinkle nuts evenly over bot-

oms of two 9-inch round layer pans, well greased and lightly floured on the bottoms.

Sift flour with baking powder, salt and sugar into mixing bowl. Add shortening, milk and vanilla. Beat for 1 1/2 minutes. (With electric mixer use a low speed.) Add egg whites. Beat for 1 1/2 minutes.

Spoon one fourth of batter into each nut-lined pan. Sprinkle with the chocolate. Spoon remaining batter into pans, spreading carefully. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 35 to 40 minutes. Cool in pans 10 minutes before turning out. Cool thoroughly and frost layers, nut-side up, with frosting. Spread frosting between and on sides of layers, but frost only 1/2 inch around top edge of cake. Decorate with reserved white frosting, thinned with 1 to 2 teaspoons water for easier spreading.

CHOCOLATE FROSTING

2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup water
4 egg yolks
1/2 cup butter
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar

Combine chocolate, sugar and water in saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is smooth and thickened. Remove from heat. Add egg yolks; beat thoroughly. Cool.

Cream butter and vanilla. Gradually add confectioners' sugar, creaming well. Reserve 1/3 cup of this frosting to decorate cake. Add chocolate mixture to remaining white frosting; beat until smooth.

Miss Jones Is Wed To Edward Hina

The Church Street Methodist Church in Knoxville was the scene of the marriage on Saturday afternoon of Miss Peggy Lee Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Jones of Knoxville, to Edward Hina of Richmond, Va.

Dr. R. H. Duncan officiated at the service which was followed by a reception held in the church parlor, with the bride's parents as hosts.

The bride's gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta was embroidered in seed pearls and sequins and designed with a chapel train. A Swedish crown of seed pearls held her veil in place, and she carried a cascade of white roses, valley lilies and a few yellow rosebuds.

The bridal procession included Mrs. Harold O'Bannon of Richmond, Va., as matron of honor, Martha Rowlett of Decatur as maid of honor, Mrs. Truitt Ginn of Decatur, Mrs. Foster Park of Boone, N.C., and Mrs. Chad Tubbs of Knoxville as bridesmaids. Cynthia Jean Talman of Decatur was the small flower girl.

Thomas S. Stuart was best man for Mr. Hina, and his groomsmen were John W. Montgomery, Bob Perry, Robert Hicks and Bill Hicks, all of Knoxville.

Mr. Hina took his bride to the North Carolina mountains for a honeymoon. They will reside in Richmond where he is employed as mechanical engineer by Reynolds Metals Co. Mrs. Hina was formerly youth director at the Decatur First Methodist Church.

Bingham, Quattlebaum Vows Spoken

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Y. Bingham of Winnetka, Ill., announce the marriage of their daughter, Poppy Elizabeth, to Owen McDermed Quattlebaum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester N. Quattlebaum of Athens.

The ceremony took place at the Winnetka Congregational Church, with the Rev. Duncan MacBryde as officiant.

The bridegroom's father was his best man, and in the double role of usher-groomsmen were Douglas L. Bailey of Cleveland, Ohio, Paul Lasse of Lincoln, Nebr., Andre Navez of Molton, Mass., Barry Menezes of Wayne, Ill., and Albert Y. Bingham Jr. of Winnetka.

Mr. Bingham gave his daughter in marriage, and she was attended by Mrs. Arthur H. Muir Jr. of Pasadena, Calif., as matron of honor.

Martha Allen of Winnetka was her maid of honor, and bridesmaids included Mary Bonnell of Upper Montclair, N.J., Diane Manchester of Rockfall, Conn., Mrs. Barry Menezes of Wayne, Ill., and Lila Wrape of Memphis.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Bingham were hosts at a reception at the Exmoor Country Club.

A Teacher Suddenly Realizes She or Her Pupil Has Failed Miserably

In the silence of her room, far from the tinkle of gleaming silverware in the fine restaurants or gay music in smart night spots, Peggy Deiters, Sandy Springs math teacher, corrects test papers.

Suddenly, she is horror-stricken at what she sees. A terrible truth explodes in her face: either she or her pupil has failed colossally. She discovers sadly that Johnny not only can't read but he can't add, subtract, divide or multiply, much less successfully assault algebra. All along she has considered her class an ensemble of embryonic Einsteins. She feels with deep remorse that she has failed, though there's not much doubt whose failure will become a matter of record.

In time of trial and tribulation, togetherness is important. One must share troubles. Taffy may not be her dearest friend but he's the nearest. She goes to him. Apparently his thoughts are far away, centered on a big delectable bone, for he shows little sympathy, only polite attention, or perhaps its boredom.

Miss Deiters now realizes she must bear her travail alone. Presumably a pupil herself—of psychology—she knows that tension must not be allowed to build up. Release is important. So she releases, with wild abandon, all those exam papers. It's worth it, even knowing you'll have to pick them all up again.

Finally, grading papers is too much for Miss Deiters. She drops in a chair and draws comfort from an ice pack. Taffy, fulfilling his obligations as man's best friend, consoles his mistress.

Her ailment was diagnosed as "pupilitis." It's chronic and incurable. It occurs every week or so—always after examinations.—JOYCE GEMMILL.

Celestine Sibley A Yearning Comes Back

If I hadn't been rejected in my youth it might be a different matter. But they turned me down when I tried out for the high school dramatic club. They turned me down cold. And it wasn't that I hankered after any particular role either. I could have comforted myself that I was unsuited to do the Miriam Hopkins role in "Design for Living" or anything ever portrayed by Norma Shearer or Constance Talmadge. I could have said I was too young for the part, for instance.

But no, the way it happened was that they didn't want me in the club at all. They heard me read and they said, no. They blamed it on a complete absence of talent.

So all these years I've yearned after the theater. When I'm by myself I practice being Garbo in "Camille" or talk raspy like Katharine Hepburn or smiling a brave and tremulous smile like Helen Hayes. And I figure that some day I'll be Discovered.

Since Josh Logan and Leland Hayward haven't busied around these parts discovering people I'm now relying on another well-known theatrical proving ground, Theatre Atlanta. After all, a lot of people have gone from Theatre Atlanta to Broadway—and they wouldn't even have to worry about losing me to Broadway. If they ever let me get on that Woman's Club stage wearing any kind of costume and playing any kind of part they'd never get rid of me. For as Rusty Kitchfield of Theatre Atlanta so cogently put it: "Breathes there a man with soul so dead he never to himself has said, 'I wanna be an actor?'"

There are a lot of people like me who yearn after the theatre and great numbers of them are joining forces these days with Theatre Atlanta before its winter season opens October 9, with Mac Hymen's marvelous comedy, "No Time for Sergeants." I think the organization feels rather fortunate that not everybody who joins it insists on acting. They are content to work back stage with lights and props and mops and brooms, to sell tickets and hand out programs and hem up costumes and paint scenery.

Last year, for instance, when the group presented "Lady in the Dark," among those who labored far into the night to make it a success were architects, teachers, housewives, secretaries, a truck driver, a lawyer, a beautiful blonde woman doctor engaged in cancer research and three professional actors.

They would appear to be an oddly assorted group of people, brought together by but one great common interest, love of theater. It's as durable and exciting bond I can think of if you exclude, perhaps, romantic love and politics. And it is a source of wonderful, lasting friendships for numbers of Atlantans whose circle of friends might otherwise be limited to church, school and grocery store.

While Theatre Atlanta makes its annual pitch for membership and sells season tickets (eight orchestra seats $15; eight balcony seats $10), I've been looking over the projected program with pleasure.

Here's the line-up: "No Time for Sergeants" Oct. 9-15; "The Happy Time," Nov. 6-12; "Tea and Sympathy," Dec. 11-17; "The Innocents," Jan. 15-21; "The Lark," Feb. 12-18; a prize play by some Atlantian, still to be found and announced March 4-10; "The Rose Tattoo," April 1-7; "East Lyna," May 6-12.

Now let's see, "The Lark." . . . I wonder if they've cast the role of Joan yet? Ingrid Bergman always wanted to play the Maid of Orleans. I see by the papers, and although I'm not exactly a Bergman type I. . . Well, I did have a Swedish grandmother.

By George Brief Reply To Poser

DEAR GEORGE:
What do you think of a girl model who takes off her clothing to pose for lingerie ads?

DEAR R. E.:
I have given a lot of thought to your question and frankly I don't see how she could pose for lingerie ads without taking off her clothing.

DEAR GEORGE:
I'm going with a newspaperman but my father says newspapermen drink. Is there anything to this?

DEAR GEEGEE:
Statistics show that, despite the ridiculous notion to the contrary, newspapermen drink no more than poets, painters or criminal lawyers. (Well, we got no place with that one. . . .)

DEAR GEORGE:
Have you ever thought of doing a humor column? BOB S.

DEAR BOB:

Swainsboro Club Spotlights Contributions to Youth

By BETTY CARROLLTON

SWAINSBORO—Members of the Swainsboro Woman's Club will emphasize contributions to the welfare of youth of the community in their work for 1959-60.

Mrs. Grady Johnson Jr., chairman of the Education Department, announced at the organization's first meeting that the group is sponsoring a Future Teachers' of America chapter at Swainsboro High School, and the club will donate $25 toward sending delegates to the FTA convention in Atlanta Oct. 8, 9 and 10. The education department will also provide copies of the state song, "Georgia," to all Emanuel County schools.

"We hope that all our students will learn—and sing often—our state song," Mrs. Johnson said. She reminded clubwomen that the new, easier-to-sing arrangements of the song were written by Mrs. E. L. Barnes of Statesboro, president of the Georgia Federation.

Mrs. Johnson said her department plans to "encourage more and better reading" by citizens of the community. At the monthly club meetings, facts on education in Georgia and the nation will be brought out in specially-prepared programs.

The clubwomen, through the cooperation of many local citizens, are paying for school lunches for numerous elementary pupils.

The Community Affairs Department, under the leadership of Mrs. R. C. Mathis, has two major projects underway.

The dental clinic, now in its second year, is being operated

'HIS AND HER' team wins top prizes at flower show staged by Men's Garden Club at Southeastern Fair. Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Stephens won prizes with their horticulture entry; their "Art Linkletter" dahlia which was best single blossom in the show; for their orchid and their rose. Conrad Faust and H. H. Huckabee were sweepstakes winners for dahlia and rose entries, respectively. F. C. Parker exhibited the best annuals and the best perennials were entered by W. T. Jenkins. Silver prizes went to W. T. Jennings and David Sullivan for their horticulture entries and Philip Stokes and Ray Stock won with their orchids.

through the local elementary school, with the cooperation of Dr. Reid Watson and Dr. James Fason. Students from the first five grades have regularly been receiving dental treatment, financed through the women's club.

Screening tests for sight and hearing are being conducted at a clinic, with the cooperation of Dr. Madison Dixon, to determine how many children need such care.

The Community Affairs department is also gathering clothes to be given to needy children, as well as articles for mental patients at Milledgeville State Hospital. This drive was sparked by Mrs. Ernest Vandiver.

Other activities include donations to the City Recreation Department for the purchase of uniforms for the midget football team. Plans are underway for a community Christmas party for youngsters in December.

Mrs. I. W. Bragg, chairman of the Communications Department, announced that her committee will sponsor a series of radio programs during the club year. Entitled "Let's Communicate," the weekly programs will feature news of the club and other civic groups. As publicity and press chairman, Mrs. Bragg is preparing a monthly bulletin for members, "All About You."

Mrs. Bill Rogers, head of the Fine Arts Department, announced that the year's work will begin with a donation to the Band Boosters Club of Swainsboro High School.

October has been declared "Save Your Pennies Month" by Mrs. J. A. Youngblood and committee members of Tallulah Falls School. Under the program, club members are urged to save at least a penny a day, which will be collected at the October meeting. The money will be used to buy extra clothing for an Emanuel student attending Tallulah Falls School, the institution owned and operated by the Georgia Federation.

Two of the major continuing projects of the Swainsboro Junior Women's Club are the chapel in the Emanuel County Hospital and the School for Exceptional Children. The chapel was the first major project of the club and was established during the group's organizational year.

Mrs. Betty Gambrell is teacher at the School for Exceptional Children, now in its third year of operation. The junior clubwomen pay a supplementary salary to the teacher, and also furnishes supplies and materials for classes.

Mrs. W. A. Bishop is president of the Swainsboro Junior Women's Club.

Lodge Heard Boast Soviet Broke Code

But Refuses to Discuss Story of U.S. Agents' Aid

NEW YORK (AP)—Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge refused Sunday to confirm or deny a story that the Soviet Union cracked a U.S. secret code.

The story of asserted double-dealing among U.S. intelligence agents and the breaking of the code came out Saturday. Victor M. Carter, president of Republic Studios, said that when Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was visiting Los Angeles, the Soviet leader told him:

"Your agents in Europe and the Middle East give us your code books and then we send false information back to you through your codes." He also said the Soviets had intercepted confidential messages between the United States and Indian Prime Minister Nehru and the Shah of Iran.

APPEARS ON TV

When asked about this on a television show CBS' "Face the Nation," Lodge said he had been in the same car with Carter when Khrushchev made his boast to the film executive.

"I am sorry to say this is one of the things on which I cannot comment. I am sure you understand why. I was along as the President's personal representative. If I were once to start announcing in public what was said in all these private conversations, I certainly would be going against the best interests of the country," Lodge added.

An interviewer then suggested that Lodge's answer suggested that the story is true. Another said Carter had told authorities and they apparently told him it "was all right to reveal it."

NO NEEDLING

"Well," answered Lodge, "I don't think it's the kind of thing I can talk about."

Red Chief, Mao Quiet Spells Rift?

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI)—Continued official silence on the results of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's talks with Communist China's Mao Tse-tung Sunday fostered speculation that all was not well between the world's two most powerful Communist leaders.

Khrushchev and Mao were reported to have held three rounds of confidential discussions in the course of the Russian Premier's visit to Peking last week.

Diplomatic observers here believed they had engaged in some "plain talking" in the ideological, economic and political fields.

NO COMMUNIQUE

They felt the absence of a final communique indicated at least a lack of unity on these issues and possibly serious disagreement representing an open wound in Moscow-Peking relations.

It generally was agreed that Khrushchev was disturbed over his Chinese ally's recent ventures in India and the current crisis in Laos.

His public appeal during Red China's 10th anniversary celebrations for a new era of peace between East and West received open endorsement from Peking officials. But the Chinese nevertheless continued their propaganda attacks on American "imperialism" and their threats to take control of Formosa.

MAO BELIEVED ANNOYED

Many Western diplomats felt Mao also has been increasingly annoyed by Khrushchev's self-styled role as communism's top spokesman with the West, despite the fact the Red Chinese leader publicly praised Khrushchev's accomplishments in the United States.

The ideological impasse was perhaps the most serious of all. Russia has made no bones about its contempt for Red China's commune system. The Chinese, on the other hand, were highly critical and in some cases indignant over Khrushchev's move away from the rigid dictates of Stalinism.

Meanwhile, Khrushchev, returning from Peking, said he had strengthened peace hopes. He flew alone from Communist China to Vladivostok Sunday while the rest of the Soviet delegation went straight back to Moscow.

A MAN IN WET CLOTHING?

Bermuda Traces Sex Killings Clue

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) — Police disclosed Sunday that they had picked up their first lead in the latest of a series of brutal sex murders that have caused alarm among residents of this otherwise carefree resort island.

Arthur Lodge chief of the Criminal Investigating Division, said reports had been received that a man in wet clothing was seen last Sunday in the Southlands Beach area where the mutilated body of pretty Dorothy Rawlinson was found, partly torn by sharks.

Lodge said the suspect was being "traced" although no arrests had been made yet.

SCOTLAND YARD HELPS

At the same time, he revealed help from Scotland Yard, which has sent two criminal investigation experts, who were expected to arrive in Hamilton Monday.

Miss Rawlinson was the third woman to die at the hands of an apparent sex maniac in seven months. Police theorized her killer was the same man who mutilated and killed Mrs. Gertrude Robinson, 72, last March and Mrs. Dorothy Pearce, 59, two months later.

CAUSES ALARM

In July Miss Rosaleen Kenny, 60, was attacked in her apartment by a man wielding a hoe, but he fled when she screamed.

De Gaulle Stirs Split In Algeria

ALGIERS (UPI)—Leaders of French settler groups appeared Sunday to have failed in efforts to line up a solid front against the Algerian policies of President De Gaulle.

They split into two factions during a stormy meeting Saturday night at the Algiers town hall.

The assembled officials—National Assembly deputies, senators and members of municipal councils—appeared agreed that they should push for Algeria's integration with France in the referendum suggested by De Gaulle to determine Algeria's future.

Integration is one of the three alternatives proposed by De Gaulle in a referendum that would be held within four years after the Moslem uprising ceases. The others would be complete independence or self-government with continued ties with France.

A dispute arose, however, over the proposal by Algiers Deputies Pierre Lagallarde and Ahmed Djebbour to introduce a censure motion against the French government in the National Assembly.

Several times the meeting erupted into an exchange of insults between factions.

16,000 Hear Graham at Wheaton

WHEATON, Ill. (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham wound up a week-long crusade at his alma mater, Wheaton College, Sunday.

Because of rainy weather, the crowd—estimated at 16,000—sat in six buildings to hear Graham's sermon. About 1,000 sat under umbrellas in outdoor bleachers.

Graham spoke from a gymnasium, with loudspeakers carrying his sermon to the college dining hall, another gymnasium, two churches and the college chapel.

Graham said, "From the standpoint of the world, the death of Christ was a murder. But for Christ it was a voluntary sacrifice—His greatest victory and triumph."

Christianity is unique, he said, because "it is the only religion where its leader died for the sins of the people and where he rose again." The evangelist said that if there had been any other way of saving the world, God would have found it. "He would have never sent His son to the Cross."

By dying on the cross for the sins of the people, Graham said, "Jesus was to become guilty of adultery, murder, lust—all our sins."

Attendance for the week was estimated at 100,000. During the crusade there were an estimated 2,850 "decisions for Christ."

Disarming Possible, Says U.N. Delegate

Wadsworth Expects Ban On A-Tests To Be Extended

NEW YORK (UPI)—Total disarmament by the United States, including giving up bases on foreign soil, is a definite possibility, James J. Wadsworth, U.S. representative to the United Nations, said Sunday.

Appearing on TV's "College News Conference," Wadsworth rejected a suggestion that the United States was not sincere in its disarmament negotiations.

"I've talked to a great many people in the United States government including a great many people in high places in the Pentagon."

"GOING ALL THE WAY"

Wadsworth said, "And I can assure you that if we come to an agreement which is satisfactory to the United States, then there will be no question about going all the way."

Wadsworth, who is U.S. Disarmament Representative to the U.N., said when Premier Khrushchev's disarmament proposal came up for discussion in the U.N. the United States will have "certain probing questions" to ask the Russians.

Wadsworth also said the United States "without question" would extend the suspension of nuclear testing beyond the Jan. 1 deadline if the prospects for an agreement looked good.

In the event the United States resumes testing, Wadsworth said, "the justification would have to be based on an absolute conviction that we are not going to be able to get a treaty."

DEPRECATES IDEA

Wadsworth, America's chief delegate to the Geneva nuclear suspension talks, deprecated the idea that some senators would not ratify any treaty reached at Geneva if Communist China were a party to it.

"I have heard some senators say," he said, "that they would vote against the ratification if China were not a part of it."

"Including China in such a treaty would be the first step in an attempt to get China into the family of nations and see if some influence could be brought to bear to improve her performance," he added.

High Court Tackles Big Load Today

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court returns to its high mahogany bench Monday for its 1959-60 term confronted with a crowded docket of cases involving racial issues, labor-management and communism.

After a brief, formal opening session, the court planned to go into a week-long secret conference to determine which of the 300 or more appeals it will hear. Most of these piled up during the summer recess and most will be decided.

Results of the conference will be announced Oct. 12.

The largest group of cases demanding the court's attention this term is in the field of race relations. It has already agreed to hear arguments in three racial cases.

ARMS EXPERT SAYS 400,000 Needed To Enforce Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A foreign policy analyst said that a control system to police even a limited East-West disarmament plan would be "extremely complex," involving about 400,000 inspectors.

Acheson Asks U.S., Europe Tie

BONN, Germany (UPI)—Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson Sunday urged the formation of a "united and indivisible" European-American community that would go far beyond the NATO military alliance.

The man who helped organize NATO during the Truman administration told a meeting of American and West German civic leaders that a new association of West Europeans and North Americans is necessary from a social, cultural and military viewpoint.

He proposed creation of a "high council" of leaders from the area, including non-NATO members Sweden, Switzerland and Austria. This council would have a right to criticize national parliaments such as the American Congress.

An international community, he said, would allow the member nations to better their own welfare, permit them to offer greater help to backward countries and to support the military force needed to defend the community.

75 Teens Faint At Church Rally

NEW YORK (AP)—Seventy-five boys and girls fainted from the heat during religious ceremonies Sunday at the Polo Grounds.

The temperature was in the 80s during the two-hour Holy Name rally, in which 2,000 teen-agers participated. Francis Cardinal Spellman presided.

The victims were treated and released.

U.S. Boosts Tour Rolls In Russia

WASHINGTON (UPI)—What was once a mere trickle of American travelers to the Soviet Union is swelling to unpredictable proportions.

Some educated guessers place the number of U.S. tourists visiting the U.S.S.R. this year at 8,000 to 10,000.

A prominent U.S. travel organization now figures from 15,000 to 20,000 Americans will flock to the Communist land next year.

This is still a drop in the bucket compared with the hundreds of thousands who stop off in a popular West European country like France, but it is a long way from the protracted non-tourist season which prevailed under the grim regime of the late Joseph Stalin.

After a handful of U.S. tourists entered the Soviet Union when the gates were opened in 1955, the influx climbed rapidly. An estimated 1,000 made the trip in 1956, 2,500 in 1957. The 1958 total may have topped 6,000.

Adding to the "let's visit Russia" impulse now is the Camp David spirit of East-West relaxation and President Eisenhower's trip to the Soviet Union scheduled for next spring.

A heavier round of advertising by U.S. travel promoters early next year may aid the flow. It's getting fashionable to tell one's neighbor, "When I was in Moscow..."

U.S. experts figure Intourist—the Soviet government agency which handles all foreign tourists—had its hands full with the volume of visitors in 1959.

How heavy the U.S. tourist flow next year will be may depend in part on Intourist's ability to take care of the crowd. Another factor will be the international atmosphere—a crisis could dampen the enthusiasm of many travelers.

The tourist season doesn't last long because cold weather sets in fast over much of the Soviet Union. Most Americans visit during the April-September period.

Juvenile Home Site To Be Sold

DeKalb County Tuesday will sell at public auction the site originally planned for the county's Juvenile Receiving Home.

The sale was ordered after the county commission decided it was not suited for the juvenile home because of business growth in the area surrounding it.

The three-acre site on Lawrenceville, Medlock and North Decatur roads was purchased for $18,000 after DeKalb voters approved a $150,000 bond issue for the juvenile home project in 1957. The commission hopes to use any profit above the 1957 price for completion of the home. The plans were submitted for bids, which turned out to be too high.

The commission approved the sale plan in an August meeting, at which time they voted to transfer the proposed site of the home to county-owned property on Memorial drive near Avondale Estates. Plans for the home are being adjusted for the new elevation and should be completed soon, the commission was told at the last meeting.

As much as $32,000 has been mentioned as the purchasing price of the lot, according to Commission Chairman Claude H. Blount.

The property will be offered for sale during the legal hours 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in front of the County Courthouse on the square in Decatur.

Paul Posey, Dog Fancier, Dies at Show

Paul Clayton Posey, 40, of Rte. 3, College Park, died in Philadelphia, Pa., while handling a dog at the German Shepherd Club of America dog show.

Mr. Posey was owner of the Cherokee Kennels. He was born in Woodruff, S.C., and had been an Atlanta resident more than 10 years. He was a member of the First Baptist Church of College Park, the German Shepherd Dog Club of America, the Professional Dog Handlers of America and the Atlanta Kennel Club, and served as past president of the Atlanta German Shepherd Club.

He is survived by his wife, the former Betty Roper; four daughters, Lynn Marie Posey, Dorothy Jean Posey, Lou Ann Posey and Pamela Posey, all of College Park; his mother, Mrs. Annie T. Posey, Woodruff; a sister, Mrs. O. P. Evans, Newnan; and a brother, Everett O. Posey, Atlanta.

Funeral services will be announced by the Kennedy Mortuary, Laurens, S.C.

Rites Today For Victim Of Rabies

Funeral services for Harry Mullins, 10, of 2912 Bankhead Highway, NW, who died Saturday of rabies despite having taken the 21-shot anti-rabies treatment, will be held Monday at 3 p.m. in the Northwest Drive Baptist Church.

The Rev. V. C. Johnson and the Rev. Bill Reed will officiate. Burial will be in Riverview Memorial Park Cemetery.

It was the second rabies death here within a year.

Harry was bitten six weeks ago and the series of shots was completed three weeks ago.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Mullins, said they took him to Grady Hospital Friday night when he became very ill. He died Saturday and an autopsy confirmed the diagnosis of rabies.

He is survived by his parents; four sisters, Peggy Jo Mullins, Linda Mullins, Kathy Mullins and Sandra Mullins, and three brothers, Larry Mullins, Roy Mullins and Gary Mullins, all of Atlanta.

ADM. J. S. RUSSELL
Will Speak to NR Officers

500 To Hear Admirals and Senator Here

Some 500 Naval Reserve officers from over the country will "make port" in Atlanta this week for the 1959 national conference of the Naval Reserve Assn.

The conference will open Thursday at the Biltmore Hotel and will continue through Saturday. Sen. Talmadge will address the reserve officers at a banquet Saturday night.

Thursday's meeting will highlight naval Reserve training objectives with Rear Adm. Allen Smith Jr., chief of Naval Air Reserve Training; Rear Adm. Harold T. Deutermann, commander, Naval Reserve Training Command, and Capt. James M. Hingson, Assistant Chief of Staff for Naval Reserve for Submarine Force Atlantic Fleet, speaking.

The group will be welcomed to Atlanta by Lee Evans, vice mayor.

Friday the group will be welcomed to Georgia by Secretary of State Ben Fortson and to the Sixth Naval District by Rear Adm. Kenmore M. McManes, commandant of the district.

Thursday afternoon the future of the Naval Reserve program will be outlined by Rear Adm. R. T. S. Keith, Assistant Chief of Naval Operations for Naval Reserve. There will be a seminar discussion of the program with representatives of the Navy Department from Washington.

Friday afternoon Rear Adm. Chester C. Ward, Judge Advocate General of the Navy, will speak. At 5 p.m. the Naval Cadet Choir from Pensacola will entertain. A reception and buffet supper will honor Vice Adm. Lorenzo S. Sabin Jr. of Supreme Allied Command, Atlantic.

Saturday Adm. J. S. Russell, Vice Chief of Naval Operations, will speak to the group. Sen. Talmadge will address the banquet Saturday night.

Modern way to deal with CONSTIPATION

Years ago when folks were bothered with constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet, they fell back on harsh laxative drugs. They started a habit that was hard to break—and which did nothing to correct the cause of the trouble.

Today, millions of people have discovered a way to deal with irregularity that is safe, pleasant and effective. It's the Kellogg's All-Bran way.

This way is effective because Kellogg's All-Bran is a whole bran cereal. And bran is nature's best bulk-forming food. Just a small serving (half a cup with milk) each day provides all the good food bulk you need to regain youthful regularity.

Try this modern, economical good-food way. Enjoy Kellogg's All-Bran for just 10 days—let it work for you, too.

CHIEF AGENT RETIRES
S. O. McPherson

Retiring 'Revenooer' Turned His Back Only Once

By JACK KAPLAN

Sandy McPherson carefully packed his pipe, relaxed in his chair, and looked back over 36 years of eclipsing moonshiners.

"You know, us old timers with the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax unit never want to quit. It's all been a lot of thrills and excitement," he said.

Outside McPherson's office is a sign:

"Chief of Enforcement Branch, Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Unit, Internal Revenue Service—S. O. McPherson."

It will have to be changed. Retirement has ended his career of what he calls "block and tackle likker makers."

"After a few shots of that stuff, you walk a block and think you can tackle anything."

"SMART COOKIES"

Sandy has chased moonshiners in Florida, Texas, Louisiana, and Georgia, and he said the north Georgia hills are the hardest area to control.

"You don't see many of the old Snuffy Smith type of moonshiner any more who makes just enough for his own consumption. Those fellows make liquor because their fathers and grandfathers did and it has become almost a tradition.

"Today's bootlegger is in for money—fast money—and he doesn't care what goes into his product. They're smart cookies, too, and catching them has become a battle of wits. There's more of a challenge today than ever in enforcing liquor laws."

BADGE-TOTERS 'HARDEST'

The hardest type of moonshiner to bring in?

"The badge-totin' type," Sandy said. "They're elected officials and have the support of the people, even though they're breaking the law. They're the worst kind."

Then he told about the only time he turned his back on his job.

"There's an old timer who lives in a cabin that seems to be pinned onto the side of a mountain in northern Alabama where I was raised," Sandy said. I can remember even when I was a boy, everyone said Old Uncle made the best moonshine in Alabama.

"WOULD HAVE SHOT ME"

"I was back there on a fox hunt recently, and the hunt got up around Uncle's cabin. We sat down in his yard to rest and one of the fellows said he'd like to have a drink, but nobody brought anything.

"Uncle knew me and what I did. He pointed at me and said 'son, you just sit right there and don't move.' He came back with a fruit jar full of the best mountain moonshine I ever smelled. If I'd have tried to do anything about it, I believe those hunters would have shot me."

Sandy will be able to do a lot of hunting from now on. After going out to California to see his son, who is an Air Force jet pilot, he will settle in Florida. Other members of the Internal Revenue Service threw a big party for him at the Buckhead Elks Club and presented him with a beautiful new shotgun and two pedigreed beagle hounds so he could start his own pack. Sandy's retirement will make a lot of moonshiners breathe easier, but it's going to be tough on dove, quail, and foxes.

As I See It

Networks Don't Run Shows

By PAUL JONES

Would you like to see television turn back the pages to a couple of seasons ago—say to the fall of 1957?

Jones

Maybe I'm just being sentimental but it seems that television was a lot more fun when the networks still ran the shows—before the advertising and talent agencies got a strangle hold on the whole business.

I got to reminiscing about the old days in TV the other night after watching Steve Allen, Perry Como and Bing Crosby blow three of the biggest shows of the week. Somehow their shows didn't have the sparkle they used to.

Crosby's program was a carelessly put-together mishmash of nothing. It lacked the originality of some other Crosby shows.

Many viewers were left with the impression that he just doesn't care any more. I don't think he does.

Steve Allen has moved his show to Hollywood, you know. And he's probably "gone Hollywood" in more ways than one. His Monday show lacked the luster it once had in New York.

He and his crew became involved in a tedious skit about Khrushchev and TV Scout reports that he has another even more tedious scheduled this week.

PERRY COMO, in his first outing, allowed the production staff and the writers to take over.

The writers gave Perry so much to say that he hardly got a chance to sing at all. He even did the commercials—and that is bad. Como had promised that he wasn't going to change a thing. There wasn't a thing he didn't change.

I'm sure Perry sensed that the whole mess was not going well because, for the first time, he lit a cigaret at least two minutes before he left the air.

I quit smoking four years ago but I was tempted to light one up, too.

EQUALLY SURPRISING was the pitiful showing Cliff Arquette made in his premiere performance on Hobby Lobby.

Cliff is an old pro. He's been in radio, vaudeville, TV and night clubs long enough to know how to talk his way out of any situation.

Yet, he allowed himself to be crowded into a tight corner the other night and he looked like an amateur magician who couldn't make the rabbit disappear.

One of Arquette's guest hobbyists was a woman magician. Her finishing trick was the guillotine act in which she was to "cut" off Arquette's head.

Arquette stuck his neck into the chopper. She fastened down the lid and rammed home the big knife.

The gadget then got stuck and Cliff couldn't get his head out. The lady magician fumbled with the guillotine and Cliff remained speechless. He apparently was thinking about the clock which was eating up precious seconds.

The roughish, irresponsible Charley Weaver wasn't decapitated in the chopper—but he lost his head over the clock.

Cliff apparently wasn't cut out to be a master of ceremonies. Only time will tell.

Seven New Programs To Hit the Screen

Seven new—or revamped—shows will make their debuts this week.

Three new private eye shows are among the openers. George Gobel and Ann Southern will be returning, but they will have new formats and new time spots.

Here's how they look:

MONDAY

Bourbon Street Beat. This is the only private eye show on television that has both eyes. Richard Long and Andrew Dugan will hang around the Absinthe House in New Orleans and some odd looking jazz joints. Typical stuff with pretty girls and lots of suspicious looking characters everywhere. (Ch. 11 at 8:30).

Adventures In Paradise. Some stories by James Michener. This series was snapped up by a sponsor without even a script being submitted. Gardner McKay, an extravagantly handsome young man who is painfully unaware of the art of acting, pilots a boat which roams Michener's South Seas. Filmed on a sound stage. (Ch. 11 at 9:30).

Ann Southern. Ann starts a new series with guests running in and out of the shows each week. Lucille Ball, a real blabbermouth, tries to talk Ann into getting married in the first show. No soap. (Ch. 5 at 9:30).

TUESDAY

Philip Marlowe. Another private eye. This one's from the stories by Raymond Chandler. A cut above the average eye. Phil Carey, a detective with 20-20 vision, is Marlowe. (Ch. 11 at 9:30).

WEDNESDAY

Hawaiian Eye. Another private eye. The title indicates that the stories as well as the eyes will be slanted.

Some of the background shots were made in Hawaii. Most of it was filmed just off Hollywood and Vine. Anthony Eisley and Bob Conrad are the investigators. (Ch. 11 at 10).

U.S. Steel Hour isn't exactly new but they're calling it a premiere anyway. Martha Scott, Patty McCormack and Burt Brickerhoff star in a story about a young girl whose deeds are the subject of all the neighbor's nasty conversation. Stout stuff. (Ch. 5 at 10).

SUNDAY

George Gobel sets up shop on a network and at a new time. He will alternate with Jack Benny in this CBS-TV spot. His first guest will be Henry Fonda, who has a Western show on another network. They'll spoof the Westerns in a skit. (Ch. 5 at 10).

Wichita Town. Another Western. Joel McCrea and his son Jody stalk the lawless in the beef capital of the world. (Ch. 2 at 10:30).

4 Attractions Scheduled Here On Artist Series

Four attractions have been announced by the Atlanta Chapter of the American National Theater and Academy for its Famous Artist series here.

Events scheduled are the musical comedy, "Most Happy Fel-la," with Richard Wentworth and Carolyn Maye, Oct. 16; "Gay Nineties Nite," a revue starring Patricia Morrison and Anna Cheselka, Dec. 5; "The World of Carl Sandburg," with Bette Davis and Gary Merrill, Jan. 18, and Jose Greco's Spanish dance company, March 19.

Season tickets are now available from Famous Artists, Inc., in Atlanta.

WHO'S THERE?—A rampaging Indian (George Keymas) waits menacingly behind the doorway for Barbara Stanwyck after slaying her eldest son in a drunken rage, on Dick Powell's Zane Grey Theater Thursday (Ch. 5, 9 p.m.).

Vacation Didn't Hurt This Play

NEW YORK (AP)—"The Marriage-Go-Round," a sellout before it took a summer vacation, has returned to the same thing.

It was an expensive vacation, however, for the two stars, Claudette Colbert and Charles Boyer.

Miss Colbert went to Paris and bought a new line of dresses from designer Lanvin. And Boyer ambled off to Italy and France for a sunshine holiday.

STAUFFER gets results when most reducing methods fail

If you are overweight, if you've tried other reducing plans and have been disappointed, now is the time for STAUFFER, America's No. 1 home reducing plan. No other plan has helped so many people.

The "Magic Couch" (Posture-Rest®) is the heart of the Stauffer Home Plan of effortless exercise and calorie reduction. Plans with "look alike" couches are far from alike in results.

Exercise without effort is yours with the Magic Couch. Rhythmic, oscillatory motion gives you the thorough deep-down exercise you need to help you reduce.

Personal guidance. A highly-trained Stauffer counselor analyzes your problem, tailors a program to fit your needs, calls back to check your progress.

That's Rosalind Russell indulging in a bit of nostalgia in preparation for the big color special show she will host Tuesday, "The Wonderful World of Entertainment" (Ch. 2, 9:30 p.m.). Among her souvenirs are pictures of Jack Paar, Kate Smith, Ernie Kovacs and Maurice Chevalier, who are among the guests. The kid making all the racket is Eddie Hodges, another trooper.

Bardot Another Monroe? No, No!

By CLAIRES COX

NEW YORK (UPI)—French film star Brigitte Bardot's boss is convinced her career would be ruined if she ever went to Hollywood.

He is afraid she might become another Marilyn Monroe.

Raoul Levy, French producer of Miss Bardot's last four pictures, said that Brigitte does not have to work at being sexy, while Marilyn does.

BRIGITTE

"Brigitte is making pictures with people who know how to use her," Levy said in an interview. "If she came to the United States, she would be just another Marilyn Monroe."

He disclosed Miss Bardot turns down an average of an offer a month to go to Hollywood to star in a single movie for $700,000 or so. She does much better at home, he said, making far less per movie and just doing what comes naturally.

"What does Miss Bardot have that Miss Monroe doesn't?" Levy was asked.

"She has exactly what the other girls have," he said, "but what she has is put to intelligent use. It's her whole attitude."

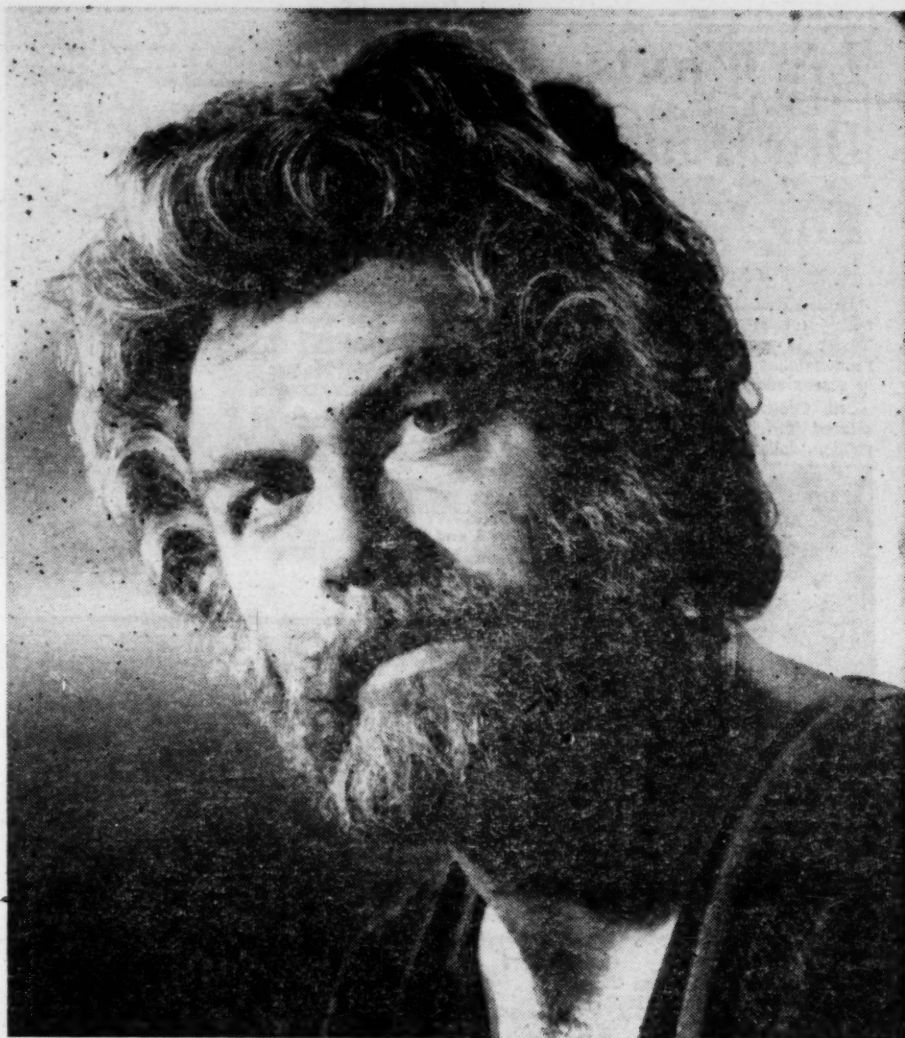

"This is a girl who lives a healthy life. She refuses to go on crazy trips and ridiculous ventures that other actresses do, such as film festivals and television and radio stunts. She refuses to have any part of it."

The basis for Miss Bardot's talent, Levy maintains, is that she is not an actress, but has a great deal of talent—as a person, that is.

"She's very intelligent, in a feminine way," he said. "If she has sufficient instinct to be desired by men all the time, that's intelligence. I don't think intelligence is knowing who Rodin was and the names of his statues."

"Bardot is a great comedienne because she isn't an actress. She is sexy because she doesn't make it a profession to be sexy. She doesn't work at it. Her sexiness is uncontrived. Marilyn Monroe's is contrived and studied. She has worked at it."

"In a Bardot picture, you don't pay any attention to the story. Now why is that? I don't know why. I'm not a sex maniac."

Hal March Onstage For 'Seesaw' Drama

Hal March, who will co-star here with Sheila Copelan in the play "Two for the Seesaw," won fame on TV for the $64,000 Question, but he's actually been in show business for 27 of his 39 years.

Hal's first taste of acting came when he was a 12-year-old "star" in a play at the Roosevelt High School in San Francisco.

Then Hal switched to boxing and won 24 of his 25 fights. The 25th encounter taught him that he could be beaten, and he decided to retire at the age of eighteen.

"Two for the Seesaw," William Gibson's two-character drama, will open at 8:30 p.m. tonight for a three-night stay at the Tower Theater, as part of the Atlanta Broadway Theater League series.

Next came a season at the President burlesque house in San Francisco, where Hal doubled as singer and straight man. Then he bided his time as a burner and flanger in a shipyard before joining the army in 1942.

After the Army Hal met Bob Sweeney and put together a radio act that later became "Sweeney and March." This team had an 89-week run on network radio before Hal went off on his own as a single again.

He made guest appearances with such TV stars as Perry Como, Jackie Gleason, Bob

HAL MARCH
On the Seesaw

Hope, Jack Benny, Jimmy Durante and Dinah Shore.

Then came his emcee stint for the $64,000 Question. He also starred in several TV dramas.

Hal has also recorded for Dot and Columbia Records and is planning a brand-new TV series, The Office, which is scheduled for a debut sometime in 1960.

With wife Candy and their three children, Hal lives in Scarsdale, N.Y.

Liz Wants Big Money For Role

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Brunette screen star Elizabeth Taylor is negotiating the first million-dollar one-picture deal in screenland history.

20th Century-Fox studios has offered the buxom beauty a million dollars to star in the title role of "Cleopatra," making her the only actress ever to hit the million mark for a single performance.

Miss Taylor, who recently created headlines in her triangular love affair with Eddie Fisher, is the center of a contract battle with MGM, however, which may prevent her from accepting the role—and the money.

She is contracted with Metro to star in "Butterfield Eight," in which she would play a prostitute.

"I just don't want to play the role," she told friends.

If she continues to refuse the part, there is a possibility MGM will suspend the actress, preventing her from working in "Cleopatra." Friends said Miss Taylor had hoped to set up a trust fund for her children from her "Cleopatra" deal.

Rumors persist the new Mrs. Fisher, who was widowed last year by the death of producer Michael Todd, is expecting a child.

Vanessa Brown Paints Now For Hollywood's Bigwigs

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Actress Vanessa Brown has become a promising artist whose oil paintings hang in the homes of top film colony personalities.

The list of movie crowd names who own Vanessa's oils include Spyros Skouras, 20th Century-Fox boss, actor Richard Widmark and TV film executive William Dozier.

Other prominent personalities who acquired Vanessa's works are Adlai Stevenson, author William Saroyan, Edward R. Murrow and

Vanessa Brown

Mrs. George Jean Nathan.

The Austrian-born Vanessa, who signs paintings by her real name, Smylla, is under contract to a Beverly Hills Gallery.

"The studio owner has already given me one show and three more are planned for New York, Dallas and Beverly Hills," she said.

"I would never have thought of it myself. There are people who work for years and never have their own show."

100TH ANNIVERSARY

Big War Stories Planned

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Show business is carefully taking the wraps off its plans to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the Civil War.

In the movie field, MGM will mark the anniversary with another reissue of "Gone With the Wind," and Columbia Pictures is planning to release Samuel Briskin's "Andersonville" in April, 1961, exactly 100 years after the war began.

David O. Selznick, who produced "Gone With the Wind," has announced he will now bring it to Broadway as a musical, probably named "Scarlett O'Hara" after its heroine.

"We hope it will be ready at the end of 1960," he said.

NBC-TV has contracted producer-writer Dore Schary to produce five 90-minute shows that "cover the full sweep of the war from Fort Sumter to Appomattox."

"My goal," said Schary, "is to dramatize with truth what the period meant to the United States and the world. Each episode will deal with a significant moment of the war, and an attempt will be made to present the shows on or near the dates the events took place."

FIVE SHOWS

All five shows, slated for the 1961-62 season, will cover the first year of the war.

One of the most extensive examinations of the war may be a weekly half-hour series from Hubbell Robinson Jr., former boss of network programming for CBS-TV and now a freelancer.

Before he left CBS, Robinson planned to present a series of dramatized historical incidents in conjunction with Pulitzer Prize-winning author Bruce Catton and Irving Gitlin, public affairs director for CBS news.

A CBS spokesman here said the network apparently had "abandoned" the idea.

But Robinson, who is doing the "Ford Specials" for NBC-TV, said he still plans to consult with Catton on the possibility of doing the war series for release in the fall of 1960.

 LEGE of Atlanta!

Jacqueline McLeroy
 American Credit

 Atlanta, Georgia

"It is a great pleasure for me to recommend Massey College to every-one who is interested in bettering themselves and to find their place in the future."

"My Professional Secretarial Course which I completed on June 26 of this year has made a very deep impression on me and I can truthfully say that I enjoyed each and every night that I attended."

"My employer said, after being here only an hour, that I would stay in this position only a short time since I came to them so highly recommended and since my business, personal and Massey College records were so commendable."

"I can thank Massey College for the proper training for a position that has a wonderful future."

Curtis Gets Villa in Rome; Errol Flynn Plans Wedding

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

North American Newspaper Alliance

HOLLYWOOD — Tony Curtis is renting a 10-bedroom villa near Rome for the 1960 Olympics. All the gang is welcome, and this includes Tony's best buddies, Dean Martin and Frank Sinatra. Tony is an extrovert who hates to be alone. With 10 bedrooms, he won't have to be. Tony has just added another film to his crowded schedule—"Lady L," from the Gary Romain novel.

GREGORY PECK and his wife Veronique are off to Honolulu, now that Greg's long siege in "Beloved Infidel" is over. . . . On the final day of shooting, producer Jerry Wald gave a party on the set, during which the crew presented Deborah Kerr with a gold bracelet. I've never seen a star so well liked as Deb.

ROCK HUDSON has been dating Cindy Robbins, who played the ingenue with Rock in "This Earth Is Mine." I thought Cindy was Bob Horton's gal! Rock has been in the East on "Pillow Talk" promotion. . . . While dwelling on Rock, whose real name is Roy, I liked Gregory Peck's new name for a cowboy star: "Chuck Steak" . . . and his name for a starlet: "Glint Sham."

GENE KELLY will wear a newly designed hairdo for his H. L. Mencken role in "Inherit the Wind," which stars Fredric March and Spencer Tracy. . . . The former Grace Kelly of Philadelphia is being immortalized in Hollywood. Rising to the blue skies is "The Princess Grace," newest luxury block of apartments, just off the Sunset Strip. And down the street, at the corner is the Monaco—an excellent grocery.

Tony Curtis

Gene Kelly

ERROL FLYNN, eager to marry his secretary-starlet, 17-year-old Beverly Aadland, is having daily meetings with his lawyer to settle matters with third wife Pat Wy-more, who wants a separate maintenance deal and support for their 7-year-old daughter Arnella. Errol has usually stayed here at "The Garden of Allah," which no longer exists. "In this frightful march of progress, it's being knocked down," complains Flynn.

FROM the "Gulliver's Travels" set of Kerwin Mathews and Jo Morrow: "In Madrid, they call star stand-ins, 'doble de luces'—literally translated, 'double for lights' to double for stars while the set is being lighted," Kerwin reports. He emerges from "Gulliver" as a new Douglas Fairbanks Senior.

I HAD wondered about the whereabouts of Victor McLaglen. He's on "Rawhide" next Friday, and directed by son Andrew McLaglen, who, at 6 feet 6, is the tallest director in television or movies. Big Victor lives in Newport, rolls up to Hollywood in a gigantic station wagon which can be converted into a double bed with super air mattress.

I MET a pretty brunette, Carla Borelli, in the Green Room at Warners. She was introduced to me by actor-writer Don Barry. Carla was a top model in San Francisco, came to Hollywood to try her luck in films—and made it. She'll be in Mervyn Le Roy's next comedy at 20th Century-Fox, "Wake Me When It's Over," and is signed for the Jerry Lewis "Cinderella." You have to be born lucky.

Show Giving Golf Tips To Viewers

Golf enthusiasts will get a bonus when TV All-Star Golf returns for a new season next Saturday (Ch. 11, 5 p.m.).

Jimmy Demaret

The program's producers have added a master lesson from leading figures in the sport. Commentator Jimmy Demaret will describe every detail.

Sam Snead's record-breaking string of victories on last season's show goes on the block this Saturday when the Slammer opens the 1959 season against British Open champ Gary Player, from Johannesburg, South Africa.

The new series opener was filmed at the Eldorado Country Club in Palm Springs, Calif., and it will mark Player's third shot at Snead within 12 months.

Both previous contests, the White Sulphur Springs and Dallas Open, resulted in a tie with the veteran Snead taking them both in play-offs.

In the opening match Saturday, Snead will demonstrate his drive, the shot which has earned him the title of "The Sweet Swinger from Hot Springs."

Border Patrol Star To Appear Sunday

Richard Webb, star of NBC-TV's U.S. Border Patrol series, will arrive in Atlanta Friday to take part in the city's M-Day celebration Sunday at the Municipal Auditorium.

Webb will be among the celebrities in the Sunday show which celebrates Atlanta's entry into the ranks of the million-person population cities.

"Patroller" Webb will be accompanied by real-life border patrolman William Jordan, who likes to call himself "the fastest gun alive."

Jordan will appear with his TV counterpart to demonstrate his speed with firearms.

A product of TV, legitimate theater and movies, Webb has appeared in stage productions of "Tonight at 8:30," "Stalag 17" and "The Colonel's Lady."

His movie credits include

Richard Webb

"Distant Drums" and "The Nebraskans."

The current Border Patrol series (Wednesdays, Ch. 2, 10:30 p.m.) is based on real-life adventures taken from the files of the law enforcement agency which polices U.S. boundaries.

Specialization

HOLLYWOOD—After 10 years with the Kansas State Historical Society at Topeka, Dorothy Johnson feared she'd got overspecialized, moved West, got a job in Paramount Pictures' research department. Dorothy's first assignment: "The Jayhawkers," a movie about Kansas history.

DANNY'S BACK—Comedian Danny Thomas and his "family" will return to TV for a new season beginning tonight (Ch. 5, 9 p.m.). There'll be some changes, though, and viewers will be introduced for the first time to the Williams family's daughter.

SOTHERN LADY

Ann's Going Back to Cows

By JOE FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI). Ann Sothern plans to retire from the acting profession next year to keep a watchful eye on her many business interests, including a herd of cattle.

"I've been working since I was 15 years old," the fortyish Miss Sothern said. "So, now I'd prefer the luxury of being lazy for awhile."

"But, even when I quit acting I'll have plenty of other things to keep me busy," she said at lunch in her beautifully appointed dressing room.

"For instance, I've been in the cattle business for five years, with a large breeding herd up in Idaho."

"I don't have a ranch for them though," the businesswise actress said. "They're kept on different ranches and I pay for the use of the land."

"I have a home in Sun Valley, and spend some time up there looking after my cattle interests."

Besides her cows, calves and bulls, Ann has two TV production companies, a music firm and, of all things, a sewing machine center in Sun Valley.

Why the sewing machine center?

"Well, I've always wanted to sew," she confessed. "And, one time, when I was in Sun Valley, I couldn't find any material for a smock so I thought it would be a good place for a sewing center."

"I think I'll sell it though, she said with resignation."

ANN SOTHERN
No Director, She

Ann's plans for getting out of the camera's eye don't mean a complete break with the entertainment field.

"I might do some producing," she said. "Some of the other girls are doing it. Look at Ida Lupino, she's been successful as a producer."

NO DIRECTING

Even though Miss Sothern is a show business veteran, she'll have nothing to do with directing.

"Men are the boss at home and on the set as far as I'm concerned," she cautioned. "They don't like being ordered around by women whether it's in the house or on a set."

"And, a female star could never be directed by another woman. Directing is an untenable position for a woman to be in."

Talent Hunt End
For Stage Show

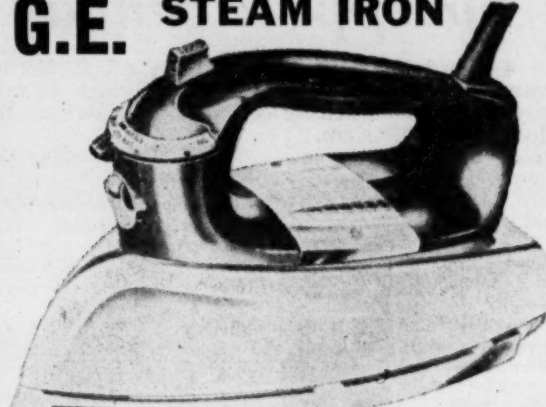

NEW YORK (AP)—A six-month search for the leading lady of a new show wound up where it began—on Broadway.

The hunt by producers Morton DaCosta and Robert Fryer ended with the signing of Carol Lawrence to appear in "Saratoga." She starred in the hit "West Side Story."

"Saratoga," a musical based upon a novel by Edna Ferber, is due on Broadway in November.

Double Horror Bill Opening Here

Two movies filmed in Dallas, Tex., and environs comprise a double feature horror bill opening Thursday at the Paramount Theater.

The two thrillers are "The Giant Gila Monster" and "The Killer Shrews," a couple of deadly animals as depicted here.

There are no "name" stars in the cast, but one of the featured players—Baruch Lumet—can boast of being the father of Hollywood director Sidney Lumet, as well as the discoverer of two movie stars named Jayne Mansfield and Rip Torn. Jayne and Rip don't participate in this horror festival, though. pictures, which are released by Ray Kellogg directed both McLendon Radio Pictures.

BOBBY DARIN

Singer Will Go Dramatic

HOLLYWOOD—Bobby Darin, the young singer who many have tabbed as the teen-idol most likely to succeed, will play his first dramatic role in Jackie Cooper's new comedy-drama series, "Wendell," Monday (Ch. 5 at 10).

Darin will appear as a newly-recruited rock 'n' roll star who attempts to get a release from the Navy by malingering.

NIGHT CLUBBER

Darin, despite his youth, is one of the best night club performers in the country. His current recording hit, "Mack the Knife," is No. 1 on all polls.

His services have been in constant demand in recent months. He was on the Jimmy Durante Show the other night and he is scheduled for several guest shots on television throughout the fall.

Darin's first important step in TV was with the late Tommy Dorsey. He moved into orbit with the teens when his "Splish-Splash" broke into the Top Ten.

The poise acquired in theaters, supper clubs and guest dates on TV have stood him in good stead. Whereas most of the rock 'n' roll singers only know a few hip movements, Darin is a wisecracker who can trade repartee with the best of 'em.

He begins his first engagement at the Sands, in Las Vegas, Tuesday night. His first movie for Paramount will soon be coming out.

A pianist, guitarist, vib and bass man, Darin seems anxious to prove that he has dramatic ability as well.

Scouting TV Tonight: Jungle Whodunit Bows

By THE TV SCOUT

BEST BET—Of several new programs tonight, Adventures in Paradise gets the nod because it manages to combine features of a Western, a whodunit and a jungle adventure story.

Gardner McKay stars as skipper of a South Pacific tramp boat, whose cargo is generally trouble.

The show you'll see tonight was actually the sixth one made; they chose this one because people who saw the first five were unanimous in calling them terrible.

This one finds McKay involved in the murder of a saintly Englishman on a remote island. The murder weapon is ingenious: a big, deep pit which comes equipped with a wild boar. One push and, poof, there goes Sir Andrew. The prime suspect is a dirty recluse and the natives want to kill him.

Like a Western with its restless Indians, our hero and his buddies hold back the natives until justice can triumph. Teresa Wright is the chief guest star, as a lady who loved the victim. Margo, as Mrs. Recluse, and Hazel Court are other ladies present. Miss Wright, who goes off her South Pacific rocker at the end, has a nice, meaty part. 9:30-10:30 (Ch. 11).

7:30-8 (Ch. 2)—Richard Diamond, the many-faceted detective, moves to this new time period tonight, bringing along his jazz, his sexy-voiced telephone operator and his assorted criminals. David Janssen plays Diamond, and still plays him like a cut-rate Clark Gable. Tonight, Diamond gets involved with a big-name hood and a mysterious black book.

The Anderson family, in toto, returns with the same characters, the same pleasant comedy, the same feel of near-reality. Tonight, the whole gang goes off for a family reunion, even though some are unwilling. They never get there, because of car trouble, and they find victory through this defeat.

It's a bit on the sweet, saccharine side, but that's life with Father Knows Best.

DICKENS: A Christmas Carol.
Read by Dan O'Herlihy. Audio Book (16-rpm 4-record album).

This recording of Dickens' classic, the only complete version ever done on records—or on TV either—reminds us that Christmas isn't too far away. Known to American film fans for his fine roles in "Odd Man Out," Orson Welles' "Macbeth" and the remarkable "Robinson Crusoe," in which he was alone on the screen for 60 of the movie's 90 minutes, Irish-born O'Herlihy is a natural for reader of this story. He is alone here for the nearly four-hour playing time, a bargain at $4.95, and it held us fascinated all the way.—GRG.

CHA-CHA-CHA. Ralph Font and His Orchestra. Westminster.

The tunes wrapped up here, cha, would turn over in their Victrola, cha, if they could hear what's happened to them, cha.

Cha-cha-ed are such old timers as "Lady Be Good," "Third Man Theme," "Making Whoopee," and "Fascination." The most, however, is "Ja-Da Wants to Cha-Cha." And who ever thought we'd have the "Carica Cha-Cha."

Anyway, we've got them. And they don't sound bad at all, if you like cha. But the "Hallelujah Cha-Cha" takes a lot of getting used to.

PETRI PLAYS BACH & BUSONI. Egon Petri, solo pianist. Westminster.

This record will please both "educated" and "uneducated" listeners. On the one hand, the Busoni and Petri transcriptions of Bach's chorals are the traditional, soothing pieces so familiar to Christians the world over.

The Busoni "Fantasia Contrappuntistica," on the other hand, provides Petri with an opportunity to display the virtuosity for which he has been noted for 25 years, and while the composition is not easily grasped as to tonality, it is interesting and vibrant.

Dillon's 'Kitty' Has a Rival

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Kitty what's-her-name, Matt Dillon's gal on TV's Gunsmoke, is being challenged for the crown of "Queen of Western Saloons."

As owner of the Long Branch, Kitty has been the most dominant female in horse opera circles for years.

Lawman opposite John Russell.

The show's producer, Jules Schermer, is girding himself for the charge that he's imitating Kitty.

"We're not copying anybody," Jules insists. "I don't think the dancehall girl has been fully exploited on TV and that's what we intend to do."

"I'm not trying to knock the Number One show on TV, but Kitty is a piece of furniture that you move around."

"Lily will not be," he claims. "In our story, she'll be an integral part of the plot or we'll leave her out."

"Also, I think Lily has the prettiest legs on TV," Jules said. "As far as sex is concerned, our show will dominate the market."

"Of course, it'll be so subtle the censors won't notice it," he added cautiously.

On His Own Time

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actor Kirk Douglas set what may be a film industry record by working 172 days consecutively in "Spartacus." However, there was no overtime. He's producing the picture.

Sarnoff Pushing Color TV

SEATTLE (UPI)—Within the next 5 or 10 years nearly every television set sold will be a color set, Robert Sarnoff of the National Broadcasting Company predicted Saturday.

Sarnoff said the progress of color TV is heartening. The NBC chairman, just returned from a study of television in Japan, met here with TV executives of Seattle.

Sarnoff said "if the other networks were programming color TV regularly and if we had two or three other major producers of color TV sets, they would be going like hotcakes at present prices."

NBC is a subsidiary of Radio Corporation of America, the only major manufacturer of color sets.

"We would love to have some competition," Sarnoff added. "This is one situation in which competitors would add to the sales of color sets. When a buyer goes into a store and sees only one brand of color TV, he's less apt to buy than if he had two or three brands from which to choose."
